Preface.

In the preface to the work* of which the following is a revision, Prof. Bühler writes as follows:

"The following Leitfaden was written last winter [1881—82], and, printed in manuscript form, was used in the instruction of quite a large number of scholars. It is based upon the purely practical method of Sanskrit instruction, which was introduced at Haug's and my own instance into the Indian secondary schools, and has become established there by means of R. G. Bhāndārkar's text-books. The attempt to transfer this method to European universities is justified by the practical success which, as my experience shows, is to be gained thereby. For I have found that beginners master the first difficulties of Sanskrit very rapidly, and that learners take the most lively and continued interest in the study, if opportunity for activity on their own part is given them from the very first, and they are introduced at once into the living language. Moreover, the question of economy of time is made the more weighty by the fact that the elements of Sanskrit form an important aid to students of Classical and Germanic Philology, yet to a large number of such are accessible only when the subject can be mastered in a short time. On the other hand, the disadvantages necessarily entailed by the purely practical method may readily be removed later by a short methodical exposition of the grammar..... The verses in the exercises are taken chiefly from Boehtlingk's Indischen Sprüchen; the sentences are in part derived from various Sanskrit works, or modelled after passages contained in them. To the last lessons no Sanskrit exercises have been appended, since the reading of the Nala or of some other easy Sanskrit work may very well be begun as soon as the formation of the perfect has been learned."

After using the Leitfaden for some time in the instruction of a class, I was convinced of its great merits as a practical introduction to the language; while on the other hand it seemed very unfortunate that it held throughout to the native system of grammar, which, since the appearance of Prof. Whitney's work, we in America at least have learned to distrust. Under these circumstances it seemed advisable to attempt a combination of BÜHLER's practical exercises with Whitney's theory; and to this end the book has been really rewritten. An introduction has been added, giving a general view of the structure of the language; the exercises have been pruned here and there, chiefly to remove forms which seemed too unusual or doubtful to have a just claim on the beginner's memory; and the number of lessons has been reduced from forty-eight to forty-five, by condensing the description, needlessly full for beginners, of the aorist, precative, and secondary conjugations. I have endeavored to retain nothing but what would supply the real wants of those for whom the book is designed; yet here and there, having in mind those who may take up this study without a teacher, I have added explanations which I should otherwise have left for oral communication by the instructor.

A detailed explanation of the changes in the grammatical part of the book would require too much space to be given here. They may be summarized in the statement that I have striven to remove all forms at present "non-quotable". In the explication of the rules I have sought to be brief, but never to the sacrifice of clearness. In very many cases not only the substance but also the words of Prof. Whitney's rules have been incorporated into those of the Primer, which was done with his sanction. It seemed quite needless to designate all such borrowings by quotation-marks.

Many acknowledgments are due to those whose aid has made possible the appearance of the work. Prof. BÜHLER'S ready generosity in consenting to the rendering of his book into a very different form from that which he gave it deserves most grateful mention. To Prof. Whitney I owe deep gratitude for many valuable suggestions; he was kind enough to look over the work in manuscript, and, later, to put at my disposal the advance sheets of his invaluable collection of verb-forms. To Prof. Lanman I am equally indebted; as well for many useful hints as for the arduous task of looking over proof-sheets, which he imposed on himself with characteristic readiness. My pupil, Mr. A. V. W. Jackson, assisted me not a little in the compilation of the Glossaries. My acknowledgments are also due to the printers, Gebr. Unger (Th. Grimm) of Berlin, for the careful manner in which their part of the work has been done.

From V. S. Apte's "Guide to Sanskrit Composition" I have derived occasional examples.

The appearance of the book has been delayed considerably beyond the date originally planned for it. The printing was begun in November last, but was interrupted by my illness, and a resulting stay of considerable length in the West Indies.

I shall esteem it a favor if any who may use this book will notify me of misprints or inaccuracies of any sort which they may remark.

NOTE TO THE SECOND EDITION.

In this edition errors have been corrected in the plates wherever possible, otherwise noted in a list of corrections and additions at the end of the book. My thanks are due to Prof. Lanman, and Prof. H. F. Burton of Rochester, for corrections furnished.

Suggestions for using the Primer.

The Primer can be finished by earnest students in sixteen or seventeen weeks, reckoning three lessons per week, with here and there an hour for review. After that Lanman's Sanskrit Reader, an introduction to which this work is partly intended to be, should be taken up. Students are strongly recommended to provide themselves with Whitney's Sanskrit Grammar at the outset.

It seemed advisable to leave the Introduction undivided into lessons, as different teachers may prefer to impart the alphabet, etc., to their scholars at different rates of speed. Some of the exercises for translation may be found rather too long to be completed in one lesson. In such cases it will probably be better, after requiring the translation of only so many sentences as the pupil may reasonably be expected to master in the preparation of one day's lesson, to proceed directly to the next lesson in the following hour, leaving the untranslated sentences for a review.

The vocabularies prefixed to each exercise are not exhaustive, since words which have been treated of immediately before are sometimes omitted from them. The glossaries at the end of the book will, it is hoped, be found complete for the exercises; but the meaning of compound words must in most cases be learned from their elements; and proper names have often been omitted, their Sanskrit forms being discernible from the transliteration.

The table of contents in systematic grammatical arrangement is designed to facilitate the finding of any desired article; it may also be found useful as an outline for a rapid grammatical review.

Arrangement of Vocabularies. The vocabularies are arranged in strict alphabetic order (see below). All nouns, whether substantives or adjectives, are given in the stem-form. All verb-forms are placed under the root; prepositional compounds of verbs likewise, and not in the alphabetic place of the preposition. Of verbal adjectives and nouns, some important ones have been given in their alphabetic places, but the meaning of most of them must be learned from their respective roots. Pronouns are given generally in the form of the nominative.

Alphabetic Order. The alphabetic order is that given in § 1, but the following points are to be noticed here:

The visarga stands next after the vowels; but a visarga regarded as equivalent to a sibilant and exchangeable with it has the alphabetic place of that sibilant.

The sign \dot{n} , representing "the anusvāra of more independent origin", has its place before $\frac{1}{2}$ 1; the putes etc.; thus danç and danstrā stand before daksa.

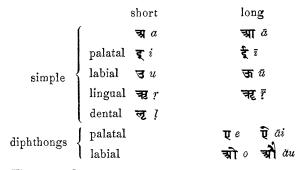

The sign m, representing an assimilated m, is placed according to its phonetic value. 1. If m, resulting from the assimilation of m to a semivowel, sibilant, or h, represent a nasal semivowel or anusvāra, then its place is like that of n. Thus pure comes before punya and samçaya before sakṛt. 2. But if m be the product of m assimilated to a mute, representing \bar{n} , \tilde{n} , n, n, or m, then its place is that of the nasal so represented.

Introduction.

Alphabet.

1. Sanskrit is commonly written in what is called the Devanāgar alphabet. The characters of this, and the European characters which will be used in transliterating them, are as follows:

Vowels.

Visarga: h.

Anusvāra - n or m.

Consonants.

					sonant asp.	nasal -

Sibilants: palatal \mathfrak{A} φ ; lingual \mathfrak{A} φ ; dental \mathfrak{A} s. Aspiration \mathfrak{F} h.

- 2. The above order is that in which the sounds are catalogued by native grammarians; and European scholars have adopted it as the alphabetic order, for dictionaries, etc. The writing runs from left to right.
- 3. The theory of the $devan\bar{a}gar\bar{\imath}$ mode of writing is syllabic and consonantal. That is, it regards as the written unit, not the simple sound, but the syllable; and further, it regards as the substantial part of the syllable the consonant (or the consonants) preceding the vowel this latter being merely implied, as is the case with short $\exists a$, except when initial, or, if written, being written by a subordinate sign attached to the consonant.
 - 4. Hence follow these two principles:
- A. The forms of the vowel-characters given above are used only when the vowel forms a syllable by itself, or is not combined with a preceding consonant: that is, when it is initial, or preceded by another vowel. In combination with a consonant, other modes of representation are used.
- B. If more than one consonant precede a vowel, forming with it a single syllable, their characters must be combined into a single character.
- 5. According to the Hindu mode of dividing syllables, each syllable must end in a vowel, or visarga, or anusvāra, except at the end of the word; and as ordinary Hindu usage does not divide the words of a sentence in writing, a final consonant is combined into one syllable with the initial vowel or consonant of the following word, so that a syllable ends in a consonant only at the end of the sentence.

Thus the sentence kṣetreṣu siktābhir meghānām adbhir dhānyam prarūdham — 'by the water which drops from the clouds upon the fields the grain grows tall' — would be considered as consisting of the syllables kṣe tre ṣu si ktā bhi rme ghā nā ma dbhi rdhā nyam pra rū dham. Each of these syllables would be indicated by a single group of signs, without any reference whatever to the division of the words composing the sentence; and the syllables are always written independently, with more or less closeness of approach; either like this:

चे चे षु सि क्ता भि में घा नाम द्विधान्यं प्र रूटम् — or thus: चेंचेषु-सिक्ताभिमें घानामद्विधान्यं प्ररूटमः

- 6. In Sanskrit works printed in Europe, the common practice is to separate the words so far as this can be done without any alteration of the written form. Thus, र्न्य नमः indrāya namaḥ; but तत्सचितुर्वरेखम् tat savitur varenyam, because the final त् t and र r are not written with their full forms. But some few works have been printed, in which, by a free use of a sign called virāma (see below, § 8), the individual words are separated. In transliterated texts there is no good reason for printing otherwise than with all the words separated.
- 7. Under A. Vowels combined with preceding consonants are written as follows:
 - a: Short a has no written sign at all; the consonant-sign itself implies a following a, unless some other vowel-sign is attached to it (or else the virāma see below, § 8). Thus the consonant-signs given above are really the signs for ka, kha, ca, cha, etc. (as far as ₹ ha).
 - 2. ā: का kā. चा cā. धा dhā etc.
 - 3. i and $\bar{\imath}$: कि ki. पि pi. धि dhi. की $k\bar{\imath}$. पी $p\bar{\imath}$. धी $dh\bar{\imath}$. The hook above, turning to the left or to the right, is historically the essential part of the character, having been originally the whole of it; the hooks were only later prolonged, so as to reach all the way down beside the consonant. Observe that the i-hooks and the u-hooks, respectively above and below the line, are analogous in turning to the left for the short vowel and to the right for the long.

- 4. u and \bar{u} : \mathbf{q} , ku. \mathbf{q} cu. \mathbf{q} du. \mathbf{q} $k\bar{u}$. \mathbf{q} c \bar{u} . \mathbf{q} $bh\bar{u}$. Owing to the necessities of combination, consonant and vowel-sign are sometimes disguised; thus, \mathbf{q} du, \mathbf{q} d \bar{u} ; \mathbf{q} ru, \mathbf{v} r \bar{u} ; \mathbf{g} or \mathbf{g} hu, \mathbf{g} h \bar{u} .
- 5. r and \overline{r} : g kr. g pr. g $k\overline{r}$. g $t\overline{r}$. With the h-sign, the vowel-hook is usually attached to the middle; thus, g hr. 6. l: g kl.
- 7. Diphthongs. e: की ke. पे pe. चे ye. āi: की kāi. धी dhāi. o: की ko. भी bho. āu: की kāu. री rāu.

In some printed texts the signs for o and $\bar{a}u$ are separated, the \triangle or \triangle being placed over the consonant-sign, and not over the perpendicular stroke; thus, \widehat{a}_1 ko, \widehat{a}_1 $k\bar{a}u$.

- 8. A consonant-sign may be made to signify the sound of that consonant alone, without an added vowel, by writing beneath it a stroke called the virāma ('rest', 'stop'); thus, क् k, ह h, द् d. Strictly, the virāma should be used only at the end of a sentence; but it is often used by scribes, or in print, in the middle of a word or sentence, to avoid awkward or difficult combinations; thus, जिड्सा lighhik, जिट्सा ligsu.
- 9. Under B. The combinations of consonants are in general not difficult. The perpendicular and horizontal lines are common to almost all; and if two or more are to be combined, the following method is pursued. The characteristic part of a consonant-sign that is to be added to another is taken (to the exclusion of the perpendicular or of the horizontal framing-line, or of both), and they are put together according to convenience, either side by side, or one above the other: in some combinations either arrangement is allowed. The consonant to be pronounced first is set first in the one arrangement, and above in the other arrangement. Only the consonant at the right of a horizontal group, and that at the top of a perpendicular group, are written in full.

Examples of the horizontal arrangement are:

ग gga, ज्ज jja, प्रा pya, ना nma, त्य ttha, भ्य bhya, स्त ska, प्रा spa.

Examples of the perpendicular arrangement are: 囊 kka, 電 ɛɛa, 霜 kva, 禹 ñja, ਸ਼ pta, ෬ tna.

10. In some combinations there is more or less abbreviation or disguise of the independent form of a consonant-sign.

Thus, of \mathbf{a}_{1} k in \mathbf{a}_{1} kta; and in \mathbf{a}_{2} \mathbf{u}_{1} kna, \mathbf{a}_{2} kya etc.;

- of a t in a tta;
- of द् d in द dga, ह dda, द्व ddha, द्व dbha etc.;
- of মৃ ç, which generally becomes ম্ when followed by a consonant; thus, মৃ çca, মৃ çna, মৃ çla, মহা çya. The same change is usual when a vowel-sign is added below; thus, মৃ çu, মৃ çr.
- II. Other combinations, of not quite obvious value, are 頓 ṇṇa, ੲ ṣṭa, ੲ ṣṭha; and the compounds of 寰 h, as 震 hṇa, 寰 hna.
- 12. In a case or two, no trace of the constituent letters is recognizable; thus, $\overline{\mathbf{q}}$ ksa, $\overline{\mathbf{q}}$ $j\tilde{n}a$.
- 13. The semivowel τ r, in making combinations with other consonants, is treated in a wholly peculiar manner, analogous with that of the vowels. 1. As the first of a group of consonants it is written with a hook above, opening to the right (like the subjoined sign of r); thus, $\frac{1}{2} rka$, $\frac{1}{2} rpta$. When a compound consonant thus containing r as its first member is followed by one of the vowels i, $\bar{\imath}$, e, o, $\bar{a}i$, $\bar{a}u$, with or without a nasal symbol, the rsign must stand at the extreme right; thus, $\hat{a}\hat{n}$ rke, $\hat{a}\hat{n}$ rko, $\hat{a}\hat{n}$ $rk\bar{a}u$, $\hat{a}\hat{n}$ rki, $\hat{a}\hat{n}$ $rk\bar{a}u$, $\hat{a}\hat{n}$

- 2. If pronounced after another consonant or consonants, r is indicated by a slanting stroke below, to the left; thus, $\exists gra$, $\exists gra$. And, with modifications of the preceding consonant-sign like those noted above, $\exists tra$, $\exists gra$. In the middle of a group, r has the same sign as at the end; thus, $t\exists grya$, $t \in srva$.
- 3. When τ r is to be combined with a following π r, it is the vowel which is written in full, with its initial character, and the consonant in subordination to it; thus, π rr, π π in π rr.
- 14. Combinations of three, four, or even five consonants (this latter excessively rare) are made according to the same rules; thus, ল ttva, ব্ৰা ddhya, ব্ৰা dvya, ব্ৰা drya, ছেল psva, মেয় tsya, ম্বা çcya, ফ্লা sihya; ভ্ৰা nkṣva, ত্ৰা sirya, মেয়া tsmya; মেনা rtsnya.
- 15. Both MSS. and type-fonts differ considerably in their management of consonant-combinations, but a little practice will enable one who is thoroughly familiar with the simple signs and with the principles of combination to decipher, as well as to make for himself, all such groups.
- 16. A sign (ς) called the avagraha, or 'separator', is used in printed texts to mark the elision of initial a after final e or o (see below, \S 119, 158): thus নি ত্লেবন্ te 'bruvan. But some texts, especially those printed in India, dispense with this sign.

In our transliteration this sign will be represented by the inverted comma, as in the example just given. In the MSS the s is also used as a hyphen, and sometimes as a mark of hiatus.

17. The sign • is used to mark an omission of something easily understood (whether from the context, or from previous knowledge), and thus becomes a mark of abbreviation; thus, गतस् वन gatas -tam -tena, i. e. gatam gatena etc.

- 18. The only signs of punctuation are 1 and 11.
- 19. The numeral figures are

In combination, to express larger numbers, they are used precisely as are European digits; thus, 28 24, 8 485, 5 50 7620. This system of notation originated in India, and was brought to Europe by the Arabs, who call it the Indian system, as we style it the Arabic.

20. In writing Sanskrit the Hindus generally begin at the left of the letter, and make the horizontal top-stroke last; thus, र, ग, ग; १, श, ग्र; ।, न, न. But often the horizontal stroke is made first, and the perpendicular stroke added without raising the pen from the paper; thus, ७, व; ७, न.

System of Sounds: Pronunciation.

21. The Sanskrit is used in India to this day very much as Latin was used in Europe in the previous century: it is a common medium of communication between the learned, be their native tongues what they may, and it is not the vernacular of any district whatever. Hence it is not strange that the pronunciation of Sanskrit words varies greatly among scholars from different parts of India; and probably no one system represents the true ancient mode of utterance with much exactness.

I. Vowels.

22. A. The a, i, and u-vowels. These three occur both short and long, and are to be pronounced in the 'Italian' manner — as in (or-)gan and father, pin and pique, pull and rule, respectively. The

- a-vowel stands in no relation of kindred with any of the classes of consonantal sounds. But the i-vowel is distinctly palatal, and the u-vowel as distinctly labial.
- 23. B. The r and l-vowels. Both of these are plainly the result of abbreviating syllables containing a τ r or τ l along with another vowel: r is to be sounded like the re in the English fibre, l like le in able.
- 24. C. The diphthongs. 1. The e and o, which are always long, should receive the long e and o-sounds of the English they and bone, without true diphthongal character. In their origin, both were doubtless in the main pure diphthongs (e = a + i, o = a + u); but they lost this character at a very early period.
- 2. The $\bar{a}i$ and $\bar{a}u$ are spoken like the ai in English aisle and au in German Baum (ou in English house); that is, as pure diphthongs with long prior element. They were originally, doubtless, distinguished from e and o only by the length of the first element.

II. Consonants.

- 25. A. Mutes. In each series of mutes there are two surd members, two sonants, and one nasal (also sonant); e.g., in the labial series, the surds p and ph, the sonants b and bh, and the sonant m.
- 26. The first and third members of each series are the ordinary corresponding surd and sonant mutes of European languages; thus, k and g, t and d, p and b.
- 27. Nor is the character of the nasal any more doubtful. What m is to p and b, or n is to t and d, that is also each other nasal to its own series of mutes: a sonant expulsion of breath into and through the nose, while the mouth-organs are in the mutecontact.
 - 28. The second and fourth of each series are aspirates; thus, beside the surd mute k we have the corresponding surd aspirate kh, and beside the sonant g, the corresponding aspirate gh. It is usual among European scholars to pronounce both classes of aspirates as the corresponding non-aspirates with a very closely following h; e. g., th nearly as in boathouse, ph as in haphazard, dh as in madhouse. This is inaccurate so far as the sonants are concerned; but the question of their original sound is one of great difficulty, and still unsettled.

29. The aspirates are not double letters.

The several mute-series will now be taken up in detail.

- 30. 1. Gutturals: k, kh, g, gh, \bar{n} . These are the ordinary English k and g ("hard")-sounds, with their corresponding aspirates and nasal; the last, like ng in singing.
- 31. 2. Palatals: c, ch, j, jh, \tilde{n} . This whole series is derivative, being generated by the corruption of original gutturals. (The palatal mute c and the sibilant c often represent two successive stages of corruption of k; the corresponding degrees of corruption of g are both represented by j.) For this reason the euphonic treatment of the palatals is in many respects peculiar. The palatal mutes c and j are pronounced with the compound sounds of English ch and j, as in church and judge. See also § 28.
- 32. 3. Linguals: t, th, d, dh, n. The lingual mutes are said to be uttered with the tip of the tongue turned up and drawn back into the dome of the palate, somewhat as the English (or rather American) smooth r, e. g. in very is pronounced. In practice European Sanskritists make no attempt to distinguish them from the dentals: t is pronounced like t, d like d, and so on.
- 33. 4. Dentals: t, th, d, dh, n. These are practically the equivalents of our so-called dentals t, d, n.*

^{*} But the Hindus generally use linguals to represent the English dentals; thus, लएड न landana = 'London.'

- 34. 5. Labials: p, ph, b, bh, m. These are exactly the equivalents of the English p, b, m.
- 35. B. Semivowels: y, r, l, v. 1. The palatal semivowel y stands in the closest relationship with the vowel i (short or long): the two exchange with one another in cases innumerable. Very probably the Sanskrit y had everywhere more of an i-character than our y.
- 36. 2. The r is clearly a lingual sound. It thus resembles the English smooth r, and like this seems to have been untrilled.
 - 37. 3. The l is a sound of dental position, quite as in English.
- 38. 4. The labial v is pronounced as English or French v by the modern Hindus except when preceded by a consonant (except r) in the same syllable, when it sounds like English w; and European scholars follow the same practice (with or without the same exception). But strictly the v stands related to an v-vowel precisely as v to an v-vowel: that is, it is a v-sound in the English sense, or perhaps more like the v in French v in The rules of Sanskrit euphony affecting this sound, and the name "semi-vowel", have no application except to such a v-sound: a v-sound (German v) is no semivowel, but a spirant, like the English v-sounds and v-sounds
- 39. C. Sibilants: c, s, s. 1. The s is of plain character: a dental, and exactly like the English s (as in lesson never as in ease).
- 40. 2. The s is the sibilant pronounced in the lingual position. It is, therefore, a kind of sh-sound, and by Europeans is pronounced as ordinary English sh, no attempt being made to give it its proper lingual quality.
- 41. 3. The g is by all native authorities described as palatal. It is the usual sh-sound of English, though the Hindus are said to speak it somewhat differently nowadays. By Europeans it is variously pronounced — perhaps oftener as & than as sh.

- 42. All three sibilants are always surd.
- 43. D. Aspiration: h. This is usually pronounced like the ordinary European surd aspiration h. But its true value in the euphony of the language is that of a sonant. It is not an original sound of the language, but comes in most cases from an older gh, in some few cases from dh or bh. It appears to include in itself two stages of corruption of gh: one corresponding with that of k to c, the other with that of k to c.
- 44. E. Visarga: h. The h appears to be merely a surd breathing, a final h-sound (in the European sense of h), uttered in the articulating position of the preceding vowel. The visarga is not original, but always a mere substitute for final s or r.
- 45. F. Anusvāra. The anusvāra, \dot{n} or \dot{m} , is a nasal sound lacking that closure of the organs which is required to make a nasal mute; in its utterance there is nasal resonance along with some degree of openness of the mouth. European scholars give the anusvāra the value of the nasal in the French -an, -on, -en, -in, etc., which is a mere nasal coloring of the preceding vowel.
- 46. Two different signs, i and w, are used in the MSS. to indicate the anusvāra. Most commonly i is employed; w will not often be met with in printed texts, except to mark the change of a nasal mute to anusvāra before a following semivowel, particularly l; thus, নাভ ভ্যাৰ tānl labdhān. Cf. § 139.
- 47. It is convenient in transliteration to distinguish the assimilated m (in all cases) by a special sign \dot{m} , from the anusvāra of more independent origin, represented by \dot{n} .

Light and Heavy Syllables.

48. For metrical purposes syllables (not vowels) are distinguished as 'heavy' and 'light'. A syllable is heavy if its vowel is long, or short and followed by more than one consonant ("long by position"). Visarga and anusvāra are here counted as full consonants. The aspirated mutes, of course, do not count as double letters.

Changes of Sounds. Guna and Vrddhi.

- 49. The changes to which both the vowels and the consonants of Sanskrit are subject are very numerous. Among the vowel-changes, the most regular and frequent are the so-called guṇa and vrddhi, which are of frequent occurrence in derivation and inflection.
 - 50. The following table exhibits these changes:

Simple vowels	म्र व म्रा व	इंद्रें	ভ য জ ফ	च्छ ?
Guna	ऋ a ऋ। ā	ए e	ऋो ०	ऋर् ar
Vrddhi	ऋा ā	प्रैं वं	ऋी āu	ऋार् ār

- - 52. In all gunating processes π a remains unchanged or, as it is sometimes expressed, \Re a is its own guṇa; \Re ā remains unchanged for both guṇa and rrddhi.

- 53. The guna-increment does not, except in exceedingly rare instances, take place in a heavy syllable (see § 48) ending in a consonant: e. g., चित् cit may become चेत् cet, and नी nī may become ने ne; but चिन्त cint or निन्द nind or जीव jīv may not become चेन्त cent or निन्द nend or जीव jev.
- 54. Other changes of vowels and consonants occur very frequently, in the making-up of single words from roots, by means of suffixes and endings, and in the formation of compound words by the union of two or more stems a process of the very greatest frequency in Sanskrit. Furthermore, in the form in which the language is handed down to us by the literature, the words composing a sentence or paragraph are adapted to and combined with each other by nearly the same rules as those which govern the making of compounds, so that it is impossible to take apart and understand the simplest sentence in Sanskrit without understanding those rules. The most important of the rules for such combination will be given piecemeal in the lessons.

Roots and Stems.

55. A knowledge on the student's part of the meaning and application of the terms root, stem, personal ending, etc., is presupposed. The formative processes by which both inflectional forms and derivative stems are made, by the addition of endings to bases and roots, are more regular and transparent in Sanskrit than in any other Indo-European language.*

In the present work, which aims preeminently to give the student considerable practical acquaintance with the language within a brief compass of lessons, not every given form will be explained by analysis. But wherever any explanation of forms is given, it will of course be according to this method.

Accent.

56. The phenomena of accent are, by the Hindu grammarians of all ages alike, described and treated as depending on a variation of tone or pitch; of any difference of stress involved, they make no account. These accents are marked only in certain Vedic texts, and employed only in their recitation, whereas the accents used nowadays by Hindus in the pronunciation of Sanskrit (and left undenoted in writing) are mainly ictus-accents, i. e. variations of The principles of the latter system will be given in an appendix. The older system of accents has great etymological importance; the latter none whatever; and only the older system will be referred to in the following. Here it will be enough to state that the primary tones or accent-pitches of the older system are two: a higher, or acute; and a lower, or grave. A third, called svarita, is always of secondary origin, being ordinarily the result of actual combination of an acute vowel and a grave vowel into one syllable. It is uniformly defined as compound in pitch, a union of higher and lower tone within the limits of a single syllable. It is thus identical in physical character with the Greek and Latin circumflex, and fully entitled to be called by the same name. Whenever, in the sequel, accent is mentioned, without further definition, the acute accent is to be understood; and it will be designated by the ordinary acute sign.

Conjugation of Verbs.

57. The Sanskrit verb exhibits the closest analogy with that of Greek, being developed in tense-systems, as outgrowths of certain tense-stems. In the older stage of the language, i. e. in the so-called Vedic period, the modal ramifications of each tense-stem are as numerous as in Greek; but in the later stage, the Sanskrit proper (also called the classical language), these outgrowths have been lopped off to so very great an extent, that with one insignificant exception, the precative or aorist optative, only the present-system still retains any modal variety whatever.

- 58. There is a simple or ordinary conjugation of verbal roots, which we call primary; and there are certain more or less fully developed secondary or derivative conjugations (§ 69).
- 59. Voices. There are two voices, active and middle, which extend throughout the whole system of conjugation. For the present-system alone there is a special passive inflection; the middle forms outside that system, and sometimes even within it, are liable to be used likewise in a passive sense. An active form is called by the Hindu grammarians parasmāi padam 'word for another'; a middle form, ātmane padam 'word for one's self.' Some verbs are conjugated in both voices, others in one only; sometimes some of the tenses are inflected only in one voice, others only in the other voice, or in both; of a verb usually inflected in one voice sporadic forms of the other occur; and sometimes the voice differs as the verb is compounded with certain prepositions.
- 60. Persons and Numbers. There are three persons: first, second, and third; and, as with substantives, adjectives, and pronouns, three numbers: singular, dual, and plural. All these persons and numbers are made from every tense and mode—except that the first persons of the imperative are really subjunctive forms.
- 61. The native grammarians denote as the first person what we call the third; and as we are wont to speak of the verb $\lambda \acute{\epsilon} \gamma \omega$, the verb $\acute{\epsilon} \rho \chi o \mu \alpha \iota$, the verb amo, etc., so the Hindus use for instance $\mathbf{Hela} \ bhdvati$ (3rd sing. pres. indic. of $\mathbf{V} \ bh\bar{u}$) to signify the whole system of verbal forms from that root, since $\mathbf{Hela} \ h$ heads the list of forms in the native grammar, as $\lambda \acute{\epsilon} \gamma \omega$, or $\acute{\epsilon} \rho \chi o \mu \alpha \iota$, or amo, does in Greek or Latin. The Hindus even make substantives out of such catchword forms, and inflect them according to the needs of expression.

- 62. In the following, the conjugation-class of verbs will be indicated by the 3rd sing. pres. ind., placed in parenthesis after the root; thus, মু bhū (भवति bhāvatī).
- 63. Tenses and modes. The scheme of tenses and modes put forth by the Hindus holds good only for the later language, and even there utterly confounds the ideas of mode and tense.
- 64. The only logical arrangement of the modes and tenses in Sanskrit is shown in the following table (which includes only the classical speech):
 - I. Present-System: a. Indicative. b. Imperfect. c. Imperative.d. Optative. e. Participle.
 - II. Perfect-System. a. Indicative. b. Participle.
 - III. Aorist Systems (of triple formation). a. Indicative. b. Optative (sometimes = "Precative").

IV. Future Systems.

- A. Sibilant Future. a. Indicative. b. Preterit(= "Conditional").c. Participle.
- B. Periphrastic Future. a. Indicative.
- 65. The tenses here distinguished as imperfect, perfect, and aorist receive those names from their correspondence in mode of formation with tenses so called in other languages of the family, especially in Greek, and not at all from any differences of time designated by them. In no period of the Sanskrit language is there any expression of imperfect or pluperfect time nor of perfect time, except in the older language, where the "aorist" has this value; in the later speech, imperfect, perfect, and aorist (of rare use) are so many undiscriminated past tenses or preterits.

Verbal Adjectives and Substantives.

- 66. Participles. The participles belonging to the tense-systems have been already indicated in the table at §64. There is, besides, a participle formed directly from the root of the verb, which is prevailingly of past and passive (sometimes neuter) meaning. Moreover, future passive participles, or gerundives, of several different formations, are made, but without connection with the future-stems.
- 67. Infinitive. The classical Sanskrit has a single infinitive. It is really an accusative case of a verbal noun, having nothing whatever to do with the tense-systems.
- 68. Gerund. A so-called gerund, or absolutive, is especially frequent, and is, like the infinitive, a stereotyped case-form (instrumental) of a derivative verbal noun. Its value is that of an indeclinable active participle, with indeterminate, but oftenest past, temporal force.

Secondary Conjugations.

- 69. The secondary conjugations are as follows: 1. Passive; 2. Intensive; 3. Desiderative; 4. Causative. In these, not the simple root, but a conjugation-stem, underlies the whole system of inflections. Yet in them all is plainly visible the character of a present-system, expanded into a more or less complete conjugation; the passive is palpably a present-system. Compare § 58—59.
- 70. Under the same general head belong: 5. Denominative conjugation, which results from the conversion of noun-stems, both substantive and adjective, into conjugation-stems; 6. Compound conjugation, resulting from the prefixion of prepositions to roots, or from the addition of auxiliary verbs to noun-stems; and 7. Periphrastic conjugation, from the looser combination of auxiliaries with verbal nouns and adjectives.

71. The characteristic of a proper (i. e. finite or personal) verb-form is its personal ending. By this alone is determined its character as regards person and number, and in part also as regards mode and tense. But the distinctions of mode and tense are mainly made by the formation of mode and tense-stems, to which, instead of to the bare root, the personal endings are appended.

Conjugation - Classes.

- 72. Of the whole conjugation, the present-system is the important and prominent part. Its forms are very much more frequent than those of all the other systems together. As there is also great variety in the manner in which different roots form their present-stems, this, as being their most conspicuous difference, is made the basis of their principal classification; and a verb is said to be of this or that conjugation, or class, according to the way in which its present-stem is made.
- 73. Of these conjugation-classes there are nine, including the passive, which is really a present-system only. The first five exhibit coincidences enough to justify their inclusion into one conjugation, and the remaining four will compose likewise a second conjugation. The chief distinctions between the two groups are as follows:
- 74. In the first, the classes have in common, as their fundamental characteristic, a shift of accent: the tone is now upon the personal ending, now upon the root or the class-sign. Along with this goes a variation in the stem itself, which has a stronger, or fuller, form when the accent rests upon it, and a weaker, or briefer, form when the accent is on the ending. We distinguish these forms as the strong and the weak stem-forms respectively.
- 75. In the second conjugation, on the contrary, the accent has a fixed place, remaining always upon the same syllable of the stem, and never being shifted to the endings; and the distinction of strong and weak forms is unknown. Moreover, the present-stem of every verb in the four classes of this conjugation ends in \mathbf{z} . There are also other points of difference.

- 76. The classification current among the Hindu, and hitherto among the European, grammarians comprises ten conjugation-classes, arranged according to no intelligible principle whatever. The native "tenth class" is really no present-class at all, but a causative, i. e. a derivative conjugation, which extends beyond the limits of the present-system. Probably the fact that by no means all conjugation-stems formed by the causative sign had really a causative value induced the natives to adopt such a present-class. The Hindu scheme also quite omits the passive.
- 77. The Hindu first, sixth, fourth, and tenth classes form the socalled first conjugation of their scheme, which corresponds, except as regards the tenth class, with our second conjugation. The remainder of the classes form the natives' second conjugation, which agrees in the main with our first.
 - 78. The classes are then as follows:

First Conjugation.

- I. The root-class (second or ad-class, of the Hindus); its present-stem is coincident with the root itself; thus, সূত্ ad, 'eat'; র i, 'go'; হিল dviş, 'hate'.
- II. The reduplicating class (third or hu-class); the root is reduplicated to form the present-stem; thus, जुहु juhu from / हु hu, 'sacrifice'; ददा dadā from l'dā, 'give'.
- III. The nasal class (seventh or rudh-class); a nasal, extended to the syllable na [na] in strong forms, is inserted before the final consonant of the root; thus, हन्य rundh (or हण्य runadh) from रूप rudh, 'hinder'.

IV. a. The nu-class (fifth or su-class); the syllable न nu is added to the root; thus, सुन sunu from 1 सु su, 'press.'

b. A very small number of roots (only half-a-dozen) ending already in π , and also one very common and irregularly inflected root not so ending (π kr, 'make'), add π u alone to form the present-stem. This is the eighth or tan-class of the Hindu grammarians; it is best ranked as a sub-class, the u-class; thus, $\pi \pi$ tanu from 1' $\pi \pi$ tan, 'stretch.'

V. The $n\bar{a}$ -class (ninth or $kr\bar{\imath}$ -class); the syllable ना $n\bar{a}$ (or, in weak forms, नी $n\bar{\imath}$) is added to the root; thus, ऋोगा $kr\bar{\imath}n\bar{a}$ (or ऋोगा $kr\bar{\imath}n\bar{\imath}$) from || ऋो $kr\bar{\imath}$, 'buy'. See note, p. 32.

Second Conjugation.

VI. The a-class, or unaccented a-class (first or $bh\bar{u}$ -class); the added class-sign is a simply; and the root, which bears the accent, is strengthened by guna throughout, if it be capable of taking guna (see §§ 52—53); thus, $\forall a bh\dot{a}va$ (through the intermediate stage $bh\dot{o}$ -a) from $\forall bh\dot{u}$, 'be.'

VII. The lpha-class, or accented a-class (sixth or tud-class); the added class-sign is a, as in the preceding class; but it has the accent, and the unaccented root is not strengthened by guna; thus, a = tuda from a = tuda

VIII. The $y\alpha$ -class (fourth or div-class); $y\alpha$ is added to the root, which has the accent; thus, ϵ and $d\bar{\imath}vy\alpha$ from $\sqrt{\epsilon}$ and $d\bar{\imath}v$ (by the Hindus given as ϵ and ϵ and ϵ are ϵ and ϵ are ϵ and ϵ are ϵ and ϵ are ϵ and ϵ and ϵ are ϵ and ϵ and ϵ are ϵ are ϵ and ϵ are ϵ and ϵ are ϵ and ϵ are ϵ and ϵ are ϵ are ϵ are ϵ and ϵ are ϵ and ϵ are ϵ are ϵ and ϵ are ϵ are ϵ and ϵ are ϵ are ϵ are ϵ and ϵ are ϵ are ϵ are ϵ and ϵ are ϵ are ϵ and ϵ are ϵ and ϵ are ϵ are ϵ are ϵ and ϵ are ϵ are ϵ are ϵ and ϵ are ϵ and ϵ are ϵ are ϵ and ϵ are ϵ are ϵ are ϵ are ϵ and ϵ are ϵ are ϵ are ϵ and ϵ are ϵ and ϵ are ϵ and ϵ are ϵ are ϵ are ϵ and ϵ are ϵ are ϵ are ϵ and ϵ are ϵ and ϵ are ϵ and ϵ

IX. The passive conjugation is also properly a present-system only, having a class-sign which is not extended into the other systems; though it differs markedly from the remaining classes in having a specific meaning, and in being formable from all transitive verbs, but with endings of the middle voice only. It forms its stem by adding an accented $y\acute{a}$ to the root; thus, from $\sqrt{3}$ ad, $ady\acute{a}$; from $\sqrt{6}$ ad, $ady\acute{a}$; from $ady\acute{a}$, ad, ad

- 79. Roots are not wholly limited, even in the later language, to one mode of formation of their present-stem, but are sometimes reckoned as belonging to two or more different conjugation-classes.
- 80. The verbs of our second conjugation show much greater simplicity of formation and inflection and are far more frequent and numerous than those of our first; their paradigms will therefore be given before those of our first.

Prepositions and Prepositional Prefixes.

- 81. Prepositions, or, more strictly speaking, adverbial prefixes, are used with verbs quite as frequently in Sanskrit as in Greek; and more than one may be prefixed. Thus when y वृध् budh+ श्रुव् anu is given in the vocabulary, this signifies that the preposition श्रुव् is prefixed to the proper verbal form; and the 3rd sing. pres. ind. act. of the verb would then be श्रुव्विधित anubodhati; so dhā + सम्-श्रा (or समा) sam-ā, 3rd sing. समाद्धात samādadhāti. The rules prevailing in Greek for the prefixion of prepositions, etc., to verbal forms will be found to hold good in Sanskrit.
- 82. There is in Sanskrit no proper class of prepositions (in the modern sense of the term); no body of words having as their exclusive office the "government" of nouns. But many adverbial words are used with nouns in a way which approximates them to the more fully developed prepositions of other languages. Words are used prepositionally along with all the noun-cases, except the dative (and of course the nominative and vocative). But in general their office is directive only, determining more definitely, or strengthening, the proper case-use of the noun.

Declension.

- 83. The declension of substantives and that of adjectives correspond so closely that the two classes of words must be treated together. The pronouns and numerals, on the other hand, exhibit here as in the kindred languages many striking peculiarities.
- 84. Numbers and Genders. There are three numbers, singular, dual, and plural; and the usual three genders, masculine, feminine, and neuter. The dual is used much more extensively than in Greek, where it appears in a moribund state.
- 85. Cases. The cases are eight in number, given generally in the following order: nominative, accusative, instrumental, dative, ablative, genitive, locative, and vocative. The object sought in the arrangement is simply to set next to one another those cases which are to a greater or less extent, in one number or another, identical in form; and, putting the nominative first, as leading case, there is no other order by which that object could be attained.

For the uses of the cases in detail see Wh. §§ 267-305.

- 86. The stems of substantives and adjectives may for convenience be classified as follows: I. Stems in $\Re a$. II. Stems in $\Im a$ and $\Im a$. III. Stems in $\Im a$ and $\Im a$ and $\Im a$ are namely, A. radical-stems, and a few others inflected like them; B. derivative stems. IV. Stems in $\Im a$ are $\Im a$ are $\Im a$. V. Stems in consonants.
- 87. Strong and weak cases. In stems ending in consonants, and those in $\exists x \ r$ (or $\exists x \ r$), there is seen a distinction of stemform in different cases. Sometimes the stem-forms are two, when they are called strong and weak respectively; sometimes three: strong, middle, and weakest. As is the case with verbs, this variation of stem-form often goes hand-in-hand with a shift of accent.
- 88. In the masculine and feminine, the strong cases are the nom. and acc., both sing and dual, and the nom. pl. The rest are weak; or, if there be the distinction of three stem-forms, then the instr., dat., abl., gen., and loc. sing., the gen. and loc. du., and the gen. pl. (all of which take endings beginning with a vowel). are weakest; and the instr., dat., and abl. du., the instr., dat., abl., and loc. pl. (whose endings begin with consonants), are middle.

- 89. In the neuter, the only strong cases are the nom. and acc. pl.; if there be the triple distinction, then the nom. and acc. sing. are middle, and the same cases in the dual are weakest. Otherwise the cases are classified as in the masculine.
- 90. Case-endings. The normal scheme of case-endings, as recognized by the native grammarians (and conveniently to be assumed as the basis of special descriptions), is this:

	Singular	Dual	Plural
	m.f. n.	m.f. n.	m.f. n.
N.	s m	$\bar{a}u$ $\bar{\imath}$	as i
A.	am	$ar{lpha}u$ $ar{\imath}$	as i
I.	ā	bhyā m	bhis
D.	e	$bhyar{a}m$	bhy as
Ab.	as	bhyā m	bhyas
G.	as	08	$\bar{a}m$
$\mathbf{L}.$	i	08	su

It applies entire to consonant-stems, and to the radical division of $\bar{\imath}$ and \bar{u} -stems; and to other vowel-stems, with considerable variations and modifications. The endings which have almost or quite unbroken range, through stems of all classes, are $bhy\bar{a}m$ and os of the dual, and bhis, bhyas, $\bar{a}m$, and su of the plural.

91. Pada-endings. The case-endings $bhy\bar{a}m$, bhis, bhyas, and su — i. e. those of the middle cases — are called pada ("word")-endings. The treatment of stem-finals before them is generally the same as in the combinations of words with one another.

Lesson I.

92. Verbs. Present Indicative active. Unaccented a-class. A number of roots conjugated in this class have medial short স্থ a. Inasmuch as "স্থ a is its own guna", these roots merely add an স্থ a to form the present-stem; e. g., ৰহু vad, present-stem ৰহু vada. The final স্থ a of the stem is lengthened in the three first persons.

Sing.	Dual.	Plural.
🕶 1. वदामि vádāmi	वदावस् vádāvas	वदामस् vádāmas
2 . वद्स vádasi	वद्थम् v á $dathas$	वद्घ vádatha
3. वद्ति vádati	वद्तस् vádatas	वद्ना vádanti

- 93. The ending of the 3rd plur is properly $\mathbf{z}_{\mathbf{i}}$ anti; it suffers abbreviation, however, by the loss of its $\mathbf{z}_{\mathbf{i}}$ α , in verbs whose stem ends in $\mathbf{z}_{\mathbf{i}}$ α .
- 94. As a heavy syllable ending in a consonant cannot be gunated, a root like जीव jīv makes its 3rd sing. जीवति jīvati; निन्दू nind makes निन्दित nindati, etc. See § 53.
- 95. Euphonic rule. At the end of a word standing in the final position of a sentence, or alone, \mathbf{H} s and \mathbf{T} always become visarga:h; and generally also before \mathbf{H} , \mathbf{H} , whether these stand in the same word, or as initial in the following word; e. g. \mathbf{H} , $\mathbf{H$
- 96. Force of the present. The present indicative signifies
 1. Present time. 2. Immediate futurity. 3. Past time, in lively rration ("historical present").

Lesson II.

97. Verbs. Unaccented a-class, cont'd. Roots of this class which end in a vowel, and consonant-roots not forming heavy syllables (§ 53), gunate their vowels in forming their present-stems; e.g., जि ji and नी nī form जे je and ने ne; हु dru and भू bhū form हो dro and भो bho; स्तृ smr forms सार् smar; चित् cit and नुध budh form चेत cet and नोध bodh; नुष vrs forms चर्ष vars.

98. With the class-sign म् a, a final \mathbf{v} e of the gunated root unites to form म्म aya — see § 159; so म्म o with म्म a becomes म्म ava; स्म ar with म्म a yields म्म ara. Thus, जि ji, 3rd sing. जयित jáya-ti; मू bha भवित bhávati; स्म smr सार्ति smárati.

99. Roots in consonants: बुध् budh, 3rd sing. बोधित bódhati; चित् cit, चेतित cétati; वृष् १७१३, वर्षति várṣati.

^{*} The superior figures indicate the position in the Sanskrit sentence of equivalents for the words so designated. By this indication is avoided the alwessity of applying euphonic rules which have not yet been the present. The order of words in Sanskrit is very free, and rarely a meaning of the sentence. From the figures the num. 2. Immediate required in the Sanskrit sentence will readily be seen rical present."). lics are not to be translated.

- 100. The roots गम gam and यम yam make the present-stems गच्छ gáccha and युक्क yáccha*.
- 101. The root सद sad, 'sit', makes the present-stem सोद sida. The root गृह guh, 'hide', makes गृहति guhati.
- 102. Several roots in final \overline{x} \bar{a} form their present-stem by a peculiar process of reduplication; thus, स्था sthā, 3rd sing. तिष्ठति tisthati; पा pā पिवृति pibati; प्रा ghrā जिन्नति jighrati. the final आर्ट के b thortined in के भागानिक की की का का का कि कि कि कि का की कि 103. Masculines and Neuters in ज्ञ a.
 - a. Masculines: देव deva, 'god'.

Singular.	Dual.	Plural.
N. देवस् devas	देवौ devāu	देवास् devās
Acc. देवम् devam	"	देवान् devān
Voc. देव deva	•
b. Neuters:	फल phala, 'fruit'.

N. फले phale (a+ī) फलानि phalāni फलम phalam

Acc.

Voc. फल phala

The nasalization of the alterant vowel, or in other words, its being followed by anusvāra, does not prevent its altering effect upon the sibilant; thus, ह्वींपि havīnṣi. And the alteration takes place in the initial of an ending after the final # s of a stem, whether the latter be regarded as also changed to \(\mathbf{q}\) is or as converted into visarga; thus, हविष्यु havis-su or हवि: पु havih su instead of हविस्त havis-su. In the dual & plural of all declaration the vocative is like the nomination.

^{*} As a rule, the grammarians do not allow at ch to stand in that form after a vowel, but require it to be doubled, becoming ex cch. An aspirate is doubled by prefixing the corresponding non-aspirate. Cf. § 165.

^{} The dental sibilant # s is changed to the lingual # s, if immediately preceded by any vowel save π and π \bar{a} , or by \mathbf{a} k or \mathbf{x} r — unless the \mathbf{x} s be final, or followed by \mathbf{x} r. Thus, तिस्थिति ti-stha-ti becomes तिष्ठति tisthati (the change of श्र th to z th — a process of assimilation — will be explained below). So त्रामिस् agni-su becomes त्रामिषु agnisu; and धनुसा dhanus-ā becomes धनषा dhanusā.

- 104. Force of cases. 1. The nominative is casus subjectivus.
 2. The accusative is casus objectivus, denoting chiefly the nearer or direct, sometimes however the more remote, object; sometimes also the terminus ad quem, and extent of time and space.
 - 105. Euphonic combination of vowels.
 - 1. म्र a or म्रा \bar{a} + म्र or म्रा = म्रा e. g. गता म्रापि $gat\bar{a}$ api = गतापि $gat\bar{a}$ 'pi.
 - 2. $\exists x$ or $\exists x \mid + \xi$ i or $\xi = \xi \in \mathbb{R}$. $\xi \in \mathbb{R}$. $\xi \in \mathbb{R}$. $\xi \in \mathbb{R}$.
 - 3. म्रा or म्रा + उ u or ऊ $\bar{u} =$ म्रो o. e. g. गता + उत uta = गतोत gato ^{2}ta .

 - 5. च्या or च्या + ए e or $\hat{\mathbf{v}}$ $\tilde{a}i = \hat{\mathbf{v}}$ $\tilde{a}i$. e. g. गता + एव eva = गतिव $gat\tilde{a}i$ 'va.
 - 6. ञ्रा or ञ्रा + ञ्रो o or ञ्रो āu = ञ्रो āu. e. g. गता + ञ्रोषधिः oṣadhiḥ = गतौषधि: gatāu 'ṣadhiḥ.
- 106. It will be the practice everywhere in this work to separate independent words in transliteration, but not in the devanāgarī text; and if an initial vowel of a following word has coalesced with a final of the preceding, this will be indicated by an apostrophe single if the initial vowel be the shorter, double if it be the longer, of the two different initials which in every case of combination yield the same result. To aid the beginner, a point will sometimes be placed, in the devanāgarī, under a long vowel formed by two coalescing vowels; thus, ATA-TITUTE agninā 'rīṇām.

Final radical \mathbf{H} m, in internal combination, is assimilated to a following mute or spirant. In the former case it becomes the nasal of the same class with the mute; in the latter it becomes anusvāra.— Final radical \mathbf{H} n, in internal combination, becomes anusvāra before a sibilant.

^{*} Final \mathbf{H} m is commonly written as anusvāra if the following word begins with a consonant; but the Hindus pronounce it as \mathbf{H} m in such cases. At the end of a sentence anusvāra should not be written for \mathbf{H} m, though this is a habit common in the MSS.

Lesson III.

- 107. Verbs. Accented á-class. Roots of this class form their present-stem by adding an accented স্ম á to the root, which is not gunated. The inflection of these stems is precisely like that of stems belonging to the preceding class, except as to the position of the accent; thus, ভিছ kṣip, present-stem ভিছ kṣipá, pres. ind. ভিছাম kṣipámi, ভিছমি kṣipámi,
- 108. Several roots in ऋ r of this class (by the Hindus written with ऋ \bar{r}) form stems in द्र ira; e. g., $a_{\bar{r}}kr$, 'strew', किर्ति $kir\acute{a}ti$. The roots in द i and उ u and ऊ \bar{u} change those vowels into द्य iy and उव uv, respectively, before the class-sign; thus, चि ksi, चिचिति $ksiy\acute{a}ti$; सु su, सुविति $suv\acute{a}ti$; धू $dh\bar{u}$, सुविति $dhuv\acute{a}ti$.
- 109. For the root इष् is, 'desire', इक् ich is regarded as a substitute in the present-stem; thus, इक्क्ति iccháti (§ 100, note). Likewise, ऋ r makes its present ऋक्ति recháti; and प्रक् prach, sometimes given as पुक् prch, makes पुक्कित precháti.
- ${\tt H0.}$ A number of roots following this class are strengthened in the present by a penultimate nasal; thus, सिच् sic, present ind. सिञ्चाति $si\tilde{n}cdti$. The nasal is always assimilated in class to the following consonant; thus \vec{n} is used before palatals, \vec{n} n before dentals, \vec{n} m before labials; and \vec{n} before sibilants and \vec{n} h.
 - III. Masculines and Neuters in $\Im a$, cont'd.
 - a. Masculines:

G.	देवस्य devasya	देवयोस्	devayos	देवानाम् devānām
L.	देवे deve	n	7	देवेषु deveşu

b. Neuters follow exactly the declension of masculines in the above cases; thus, দুলিৰ phalena, দুলাই phalāya, etc.

Wherewith? and whereby? and expresses accompaniment, agent, or means. 2. The dative denotes the remoter object, and direction. It is also used as dativus commodi; very frequently also to denote end or purpose. Sometimes (and oftenest with copula omitted) it is predicative, in the sense of 'makes for, tends toward'. 3. The ablative answers the question whence? and very frequently denotes cause. 4. The genitive is casus adjectivus, denoting all kinds of belonging (e. g. gen. subjectivus, objectivus, partitivus). 5. The locative denotes the place where, or the time when, an action occurs. It is often used absolutely, in agreement with a participle expressed or understood, as the ablative is used in Latin and the genitive in Greek. It is also used as trumium Tyman.

- H5. Masculine and neuter adjectives in ξ i are declined like the substantives above. But neuter adjectives (never substantives) may, in the dat., abl., gen., and loc. sing., and the gen. and loc. dual, substitute the corresponding forms of masculines.
- 116. Euphonic changes of \mathbf{H} s and \mathbf{T} r. These two sounds stand to each other in the practical relation, in external combination, of corresponding surd and sonant: in countless cases \mathbf{H} s becomes \mathbf{T} r in situations requiring or favoring the occurrence of a sonant; and, less often, \mathbf{T} r becomes \mathbf{H} s where a surd is required. In internal combination the two are far less interchangeable. The s is extremely common as an etymological final, the r not common.
- 117. A. Final स्s. 1. Before a sonant, either vowel or consonant (except र r see below), स्s is changed to the sonant र r unless, indeed, it be preceded by अ a or आ ā; thus, असिस only if the altering letter stands immediately before the nasal, but at whatever distance before the latter it may be found: unless, indeed, there intervene a palatal (except च y), a lingual, or a dental. Thus, नगरेण nagarena, मार्गेण margena, पुष्पाणि puspāni.

^{*} See preceding note.

म्म agnis atra becomes म्मिर्च agnir atra; ऋपिस् दहति agnis dahati becomes ऋपिदिहृति agnir dahati. See also § 95.

- 118. 2. Final ग्रस् as, before any sonant consonant or before initial short ग्र a. is changed to ग्री o and the initial ग्र a is dropped; thus, नृपस् जयित nrpas jayati becomes नृपो जयित nrpo jayati; नृपस् ग्रव nrpas atra = निपो दिन nrpo 'tra.
- II9. It is the practice in our system of transliteration to render the sign ζ , which denotes this dropping of an initial \mathbf{x} α , by an inverted comma.
- 120. 3. Before any initial vowel other than short या a, final यस as loses its स् s, becoming simple या a; and the hiatus thus occasioned remains; thus, नृपस् इच्छति nrpas icchati becomes नृप इच्छति nrpa icchati; ततस् उद्कम् tatas udakam = तत उद्कम् tata udakam.
- 121. 4. Final 知识 道 before any sonant, whether vowel or consonant, loses its स s, becoming simply 刻 道; and the hiatus thus occasioned remains; thus, नृपास इ要而 nrpās icchanti = नृपा इ要而 nrpā icchanti; नृपास जयना nrpās jayanti = नृपा जयना nrpā jayanti.
- 122. B. Final र्r. 1. Final र्r in general shows the same form which स्s would exhibit under the same conditions: thus पुनर् punar standing at the end of a sentence becomes पुन: punah; गोर् gīr, गी: gīh. But original final र्r, after अ a or आ ā, maintains itself before vowels and sonant consonants; thus, पुनर्च punar atra, पुनर्चित punar jayati.
- 123. 2. A double र r is nowhere admitted: if such would occur, either by retention of an original र r or by conversion of स s to र r, the first र r is omitted, and the preceding vowel, if short, is made long by compensation; thus, पुनर राम: punar rāmaḥ = पुना राम: punā rāmaḥ; ऋमिस रोचते agnis rocate = ऋमी रोचते agnīs cate; धेनुस रोचते dhenus rocate = धेन् रोचते dhenū rocate.

Lesson V.

- 124. Verbs. Unaccented ya-class. Roots of this class form their present-stem by adding य ya to the root, which bears the accent. Thus from नह nah is made the present-stem नहा náhya; from ज्ञा lubh, जुम्म lúbhya.
- 125. The inflection of stems of this class follows the model of ag vad.
- 126. Certain आ ā-roots, because of their peculiar exchanges with द i and दे र-forms, especially in the formation of the present-stem, are given by the Hindu grammarians as ending in ए e or ए कें or ओ o (cf. § 132), and by them assigned to the भू bhū, or a-class. Thus धा dhā, 'suck' (Hindu घे dhe), forms ध्यति dháyati; the root हू hū or हा hvā (Hindu हे hve) forms ह्यति hváyati; गा gā (Hindu गे gāi) makes गायति gáyati.
- 127. For the root दृश् drç, 'see', is substituted in the present-system another root पश् paç, which makes पश्चित páçyati.

128. Masculines in उ u. भानु bhānu, 'sun'.

Singular.	D	ual.	\mathbf{Pl}	ural.
N. भानुस् bhānus	भानू bhān	ū .	भानवस्	bhānavas
A. भानुम् bhānum	n n		भानून के	an ū n

L. भागी bhānāu	27		भानुषु bhā	nuș u
V. भानो bhāno .

Masculine adjectives in $\mathbf{\mathbf{\mathbf{\mathcal{G}}}}$ u are similarly declined.

- 129. Euphonic Changes of H s, cont'd. 1. Final H s, the dental sibilant, whether original or representing final τ , before the palatal surd mutes [च c, क्र ch], is assimilated, becoming palatal श् g. Thus नर्स चर्ति naras carati becomes नर्श्वरति naraç carati; नर्स् क्लेन naras chalena becomes नर्ष्क्लेन naras chalena. 2. Before a lingual surd mute [zt, zth], in like manner, it would become lingual q s, but the case almost never occurs. 3. Before the dental surd mutes [त् t, घ् th], since it is already of the same class with them, it of course remains unchanged; thus, रामस तिष्ठति rāmas tisthati.
- 130. The preposition $\overline{\mathbf{x}}$ is sometimes used with the ablative (much less often with the accusative), in the sense of 'hither from', 'all the way from'; but far more usually to signify 'all the way to', 'until'. As a prefix to verbs, 刻 ā means 'to', 'unto', 'at'.

Lesson VI.

- 131. Verbs. ya-class, cont'd. The roots of this class which end in ग्रम् am lengthen their ग्र a in forming their present-stem; thus, तम tam, ताम्यति tāmyati; भ्रम् bhram, भ्राम्यति bhrāmyati but this last makes some forms with short ग्र a. The root मह mad has the same lengthening: मादाति mādyati.
- 132. Certain ā-roots (five by the Hindus written with final o) make present-stems with an accented yá; thus, হা dā, হানি dyáti.
- 133. The root হাঘ্ vyadh is abbreviated to বিঘ্ vidh in the present-system: বিঘানি vidhyati.
- 134. The root ππ kram, said by the natives to form its present-stem according to this class, really forms it only according to the α-class, and the root-vowel is lengthened in the active voice, but not in the middle; thus, πτπ krāmati, but middle πτπ krāmate.
- 135. The root चम् cam, used only with the preposition च्या ā, forms त्राचामित ācāmati.
 - 136. Neuters in उ u. मधु madhu, 'honey'.

	Singul	ar.		Dual.	Plur	al.
N.	मधु ग	ıadhu	मधुनी	$madhun\bar{\imath}$	मधूनि ग	nadhūni

L.	मधुनि	madhuni	n	'n	मधुषु 🎟	adhu ş u
\mathbf{v} .	मधु or	मधो

137. Neuter adjectives (but not substantives) in 3 u may take the forms proper to the masculine in the dat., abl.-gen., loc. sing., and gen.-loc. dual.

138. Changes of final न n. Before initial ज j and श् φ , न् n becomes ज् ñ; thus, तान् जनान् tān janān becomes ता-ञ्चनान् tāñ janān; तान् भाजून् tān çatrūn = ताञ्याचून् tāñ çatrūn. In the last case, however, we ch is almost always substituted for the initial श् ç; thus, ताञ्चन् tāñ chatrūn.

139. Final \mathbf{q} n, before an initial \mathbf{q} l, is assimilated and becomes nasalized l, which is written माँ hl, or (what is the same thing) 🚣 n; thus तान लोकान tan lokan becomes ताल् लोकान tan lokan or ni enan tān lokān.

140. Before the surd palatal, lingual, and dental mutes there is inserted after final न n a sibilant of each of those classes respectively, before which of n becomes anusvāra; thus for alo tān ca we find तां स्व tāng ca; for तान तथा tān tathā, तांस्तथा tāns tathā."

^{*} This rule really involves an historic survival, the large majority of cases of final \mathbf{q} n in the language being for original ns. Practically, the rule applies only to \mathbf{q} n before \mathbf{q} c and \mathbf{q} t, since cases involving the other initials are excessively rare.

Lesson VII.

- 141. Causative Verbs (native "cur-class"). The Hindu grammarians describe a certain present-system which they assign to a so-called "cur-class". This is, however, in fact no present-class at all, but a causative or secondary conjugation, which is not confined to the present-system. But many formations of this sort have no causative value; and it is chiefly these that are grouped by the Hindus in their cur class, which also includes some denominative-stems in dya, with causative accent. For practical purposes it is well enough to consider these verbs here.
- 142. The causative-stem is formed by adding 艰u dya to the root, which is usually strengthened; and the strengthening process is in the main as follows:
- 143. 1. Medial or initial इ i, उ u, and ऋ r have the guṇa-strengthening, if capable of it; thus, चुर् cur, चोर्यति coráyati; विद् vid, वेदयति vedáyati; but पोडु pīḍ, पीडयति pīḍáyati.
- 144. 2. A final vowel has the vṛddhi-strengthening; thus, ঘূ dhṛ, धार्यति dhāráyati. Before স্থায় aya, ঢ় āi and স্থা āu become স্থায় āy and স্থাৰ্ āv respectively; thus, भी bhī, भाषयति bhāyáyati; ৸ bhū, भाषयति bhāváyati.
- 145. 3. Medial or initial স্থা a in a metrically light syllable is sometimes lengthened, and sometimes remains unchanged; thus, ঘল kṣal, caus. ঘাল্যানি kṣāláyati; but जन্ jan, caus. জন্যানি jandyati.
 - 146. The inflection is the usual one of α -stems.
- 147. Rules of euphonic combination. In external combination an initial sonant of whatever class (even a vowel or semivowel or nasal) requires the conversion of a preceding final surd to a sonant.

- 148. Final a t. 1. Final a t becomes a d, before any initial sonant, except the palatals, the nasals, and ल l: thus, मैघात अव meghāt atra becomes मेघादच meghād atra; पापात रच्ति pāpāt rakṣati or भाम्यति bhrāmyati or गोपायति gopāyati becomes पापा-द्रचित pāpād rakṣati or पापाद्भाव्यति pāpād bhrāmyati or पापाद्भोपा-यति pāpād gopāyati.
- 149. 2. Final σ t is assimilated to an initial palatal, lingual, or ल l in the next word; thus it becomes च c before च c and क् ch, ज् j before ज् j, and ज् l before ज् l: e.g., मेघात् च meghāt ca becomes मेघाच meghāc ca; मेघात् जलम् meghāt jalam becomes मेघाज्जनम् meghāj jalam; पापात् लोकात् pāpāt lokāt becomes पापाझोकात pāpāl lokāt.
- 150. 3. Before initial $x \in c$, final $a \in b$ becomes $a \in c$, and the श् ç then becomes क् ch; thus, न्पात् श्च: nṛpāt çatruḥ becomes न्पाच्छन्: nṛpāc chatruḥ.
- 151. 4. Before initial nasals त t becomes न n: thus, गृहात् नयति grhāt nayati becomes गृहान्नयति grhān nayati. But the change into द् d is also permitted, though hardly used; thus, गृहाद्वयति gṛhād nayati.

Lesson VIII.

152. Verbs, a-conjugation. Present Indicative Middle. present indicative middle of verbs whose stems end in α is inflected as follows:

	Singular.	Dual.	Plural.
1.	व दे váde	वदावहे vádāvahe	वदामहै vádāmahe
2.	वदसे vädase	वदेथे vádethe	वद् ध्वे rádadhre
3.	वद्ते vádate	वदेते vádete	वद्नी vádante

- 153. The ending of the 3rd pl. is properly स्रक्ते ante (cf. नित nti for स्रक्ति anti in the act.); before the ए e of the 1st sing. the stem-final is dropped. एथे ethe and एते ete are hard to explain.
- 154. With verbs inflected in both voices, the chief force of the middle is this. that the action is performed for the benefit of the actor himself; thus, यज्ञति yájati 'he sacrifices' (for some one else); यज्ञति yájate 'he sacrifices for himself'. But many verbs are conjugated only in the middle, like the Latin and Greek deponents.
- 155. The verb मृ mṛ, 'die', makes स्मियते mriyáte in the present; and जन jan, 'give birth', substitutes as present mid. जायते jấyate, 'be born'.
- 156. Combination of final and initial vowels. Two simple vowels, either or both of them short or long, coalesce and form the corresponding long vowel. For the a-vowels, see above, § 105. Thus: 1. इ i or ई ः + इ i or ई ः = ई ः; e. g. गच्छति इति gacchati iti becomes गच्छतीति gacchati 'ti. 2. उ u or ज ü + उ u or ज ü = ज ü; e. g. साधु उक्तम् sādhu uktam becomes साधूक्तम् sādhū 'ktam'.
- 157. The i-vowels, the u-vowels, and च्छा ए, before a dissimilar vowel or diphthong, are regularly converted each into its own corresponding semivowel, यू y or व् v or रू ए. Thus, तिष्ठति श्रव tisthati atra becomes तिष्ठत्यच tisthaty atra (four syllables); नदी श्रव nadi atra becomes नदाच nady atra; मधु श्रव madhu atra becomes मध्यच madhu atra; कर्तृ इह kartı iha becomes क्विंह kartı iha.

[&]quot; And theoretically 3. $\exists i r + \exists i r = \exists i r$, but probably this has no occurrence.

- short সুa. but the সুa disappears. Thus, वने সুস্থ rane atra becomes द्वे (স rane 'tra; भानो সুস্থ bhāno atra becomes मानो (স bhāno 'tra. By far the commonest case of final স্থা o is where it represents final সুম্ as (see § 118).
- 159. The final ৰুi or ৰুu-element of a diphthong is changed to its corresponding semivowel যু y or ষ্v. before any vowel or diphthong, except when the rule of § 158 would apply. Thus, u e becomes সুষ্ ay, and u কা, স্থায় ay; স্থা o becomes সুষ্ av, and মা au, সাৰ্ av. Thus, in internal combination, নি-মু ne-a becomes ন্যায় au, au bhava; so নি-মুয় nāi-aya yields নায়য় nāi-aya, and মা-মুয় bhāu-aya yields মাৰ্য bhāv-aya.
- 160. In external combination, the resulting semivowel is in general dropped; and the resulting hiatus remains. Thus, वने इति vane iti becomes वन इति vana iti (through the intermediate stage वनिधिति vanay iti); भागो इति bhāno iti becomes भाग इति bhāna iti (through भागविति bhānav iti). The case of final ए e is by far the more frequent. See also §164.
- 161. Certain final vowels maintain themselves unchanged before any following vowel. Such are 1. द्रें , ज ü, and ए e as dual endings, both of declension and of conjugation; thus, गिरी द्ह girl iha, साधू अब sādhū atra; फले अब phale atra. 2. The final, or only, vowel of an interjection; thus, हे दुन्ह he indra, हे अपि he agne.

- 163. Adjectives in म्रा a are declined in the masc. like देव, in the fem. like सेना, in the neuter like फल. But often the fem. stem ends in दे र, and is declined like नदी (in Less. XI).
- 164. Final ए āi and ऋषे āu, according § 159, become आय वेष्ठ and आव वेष्ट respectively before any following vowel or diphthong. The य or व may then be dropped, leaving a hiatus. The य is in fact always dropped, but the व not often. Thus, सेनाय अव becomes, through the medium of सेनायाय अव, सेनाया अव; देवी अव becomes देवावच
 - 165. Initial হু, after short vowels, the preposition স্থা, and the prohibitive particle মা, becomes च्छः thus, সুৰ হাথা becomes স্থৰ ক্যাথা; স্থা + হাথেনি = স্থাক্যাথেনি

166. An initial न of a root generally becomes स् after a verbal prefix containing र्, either original or representing स; such as चन्तर 'between', निस्, परा, etc. Thus, प्रस्थित, निर्म्सित.

Lesson X.

- 168. Verbs. Passive Inflection. A certain form of present-stem, inflected with middle endings, is used only with a passive meaning, and is formed from all roots for which there is occasion to make a passive conjugation. Its sign is an accented $\mathbf{z} y \mathbf{a}$ added to the root, without any reference to the classes according to which the active and middle forms are made. The inflection is precisely like that of other a-stems. Thus, $\mathbf{n} + \mathbf{n} + \mathbf{$
- 169. Outside the present-system middle forms may be used in a passive sense; but there is a special form for the aor. pass. in the 3rd sing.
- 170. The form of root to which the passive-sign is appended is usually a weak one. Thus a penultimate nasal is dropped; and certain abbreviations which are made in the weak forms of the perfect, or in the past passive participle, are found also in the passive present-system. E. g. from মুল, pass. মুল্ফান; from ৰন্ধ, ব্যান
- 171. In the roots वच्, वद्, वप्, वस्, वह, and ख्रप्, the व va becomes उ u in the pres.; thus, उचाते, उपाते, उपाते (see note to \S 102), सुपाते. Similarly, यज् makes र्ज्यते, and ग्रह् and प्रक् make गृह्यते and प्रक्यते; शास् makes शिष्यते.

- 172. Final q and 3 of roots are generally lengthened; thus, जि, जीयतेः सु, सुयते
- 173. Final ऋ is in general changed to रि; thus, कृ, क्रियते; but if preceded by two consonants it takes guṇa; thus, स्न, सार्थते The roots in "variable r", which the natives write with $\Re \bar{r}$, change च्र to देर, or, if a labial letter precede, to जर्; thus, तु, तीर्यतेः कु, 'strew', कीर्यतेः but पृ. पूर्यते
- 174. Final आ of roots is usually changed to दे; thus, दा, दीयते; गा, गीयते; धा, धीयते. But ध्या makes ध्यायते; and so some other roots in आ.
- 175. The roots तन and खन usually form their passives from parallel roots in आ; thus, तायते. But तन्यते and खन्यते occur.
- 176. Verbs of causative inflection, and denominatives in \(\mathbf{x} \) form their passive by adding u to the causative or denominative stem after अध has been dropped; thus, चीर्यते is stolen'; गएपते 'is counted'.
- 177. The personal passive construction, with the logical subject in the instrumental, is particularly common with transitive verbs; and not less so the impersonal passive construction, both with transitive and intransitive verbs. Thus, नरेण खगी लभाते 'Heaven is reached by the man'; त्रागस्यते 'one comes hither'; सुष्यते 'one sleeps'; श्रूयते 'it is heard', i. e. 'they say'. The predicate to the instrumental subject of such a construction is of course also instrumental; thus, रामेण्षिणा जीव्यते 'Rāma lives as a seer'.

Lesson XI.

178. Verbs. Imperfect Active, a-conjugation. The imperfect is formed from the present-stem by prefixing the augment 勁, and adding a set of secondary endings.

179. If the present-stem begin with a vowel, the augment unites with it to form always the vrddhi-vowel, not the guna: thus x + x or x + y = x + y = x + y or x + y =

180. If a preposition be prefixed, the augment comes between preposition and verb, as in Greek; thus, from उप-नो, impf.-stem उपानय, i.e. उप + श्र + नय; वि-नी, impf.-stem व्यनय.

181. The inflection in the active is as follows:

Sing. Dual. Plural.

1. अवदम ávadam अवदाव ávadāva अवदाम ávadāma

2. अवदस ávadas अवद्तम ávadatam अवद्त ávadata

3. अवद्त ávadat अवद्ताम ávadatām अवद्त ávadan

182. The imperfect is the tense of narration; it expresses past time simply, without any further implication.

183. Polysyllabic Feminines in ई रं, declined like नदी, 'river.'

V.	नदि nadi		-

184. Final nasals. The nasals ङ्, स्, and न्, occurring as finals after a short vowel, are doubled before any initial vowel: thus, স্থা-तिष्ठन अन becomes अतिष्ठत्ननः

Lesson XII.

- 185. Feminine Substantives in ξ i and ϑ u are declined as in the paradigms on the next page. The two series of forms exhibit complete parallelism: where the one shows i, y, e, or ay, the other shows respectively u, v, o, or av; cf. §§ 50, 51. In the D., Ab.-G., and L. sing., these stems sometimes follow $\exists \xi$; thus $maty\bar{a}i$, $y\bar{a}s$, $y\bar{a}m$; $dhenv\bar{a}i$, $-v\bar{a}s$, $-v\bar{a}m$.
 - 186. Feminines in ξ i and $\Im u$: मित 'opinion'; धेनु 'cow'.

	Sing.	Dual.	Plural.

v.	धेनो dheno

187. Adjectives in द i and उ u are often inflected in the feminine like मित and धेन. But adjectives in उ u preceded by one consonant often form a derivative feminine stem by adding दे र. Thus, बद्ध 'much', N. masc. बद्धस्, f. बद्धी, n. बद्ध; गुरू 'heavy', m. गुरुस्, f. गुर्वी, n. गुरू. This fem. is then declined like नदी.

Lesson XIII.

188. Verbs, α -conjugation. Imperfect Middle. The imperfect middle of verbs in α is as follows:

Sing. Dual. Plural.

- 1. श्रालंभे álabhe (a + i) भावहि álabhāvahi भामहि álabhāmahi
- 2. ग्रनभणास् álabhathās भेणाम् álabhethām भाष्यम् álabhadhvam
- 3. त्रानुभत álabhata अभेताम álabhetām अन्त álabhanta

With एथाम and एताम of the dual, cf. एथे and एते of the pres. ind. mid. She impf. pass. is similarly inflocts.

189. Root-words in ई i are declined as follows:

Sing.		Dual.		Plural.
N. V.	धीस् dhīs	धियौ dhiy	āu	धियस् (lhiyas
A.	धियम् dhiyam	n n		77)	"
I.	धिया dhiyā	धीभ्याम् di	hībhyām	धीभिस्	$dhar{\imath}bhis$
D.	धिये dhiye	n	n	धीभ्यस्	dhībhya s
Abl.	धियस् dhiyas	27	n	"	n
G.	מ מ	धियोस् dh	iyos	धियाम्	$dhiyar{a}m$
L.	धियि dhiyi	n	'n	धीषु dhi	șu

In the D., Ab.-Gen., and L. sing., and G. pl., these stems sometimes follow नदी; thus, dhiyāi, dhiyās, dhiyām, dhīnām. Cf. § 185. Observe that where the case-ending begins with a vowel the stem final $\bar{\imath}$ is split into $\bar{\imath}y$.

190. The following additional prefixes are used with verbs: म्रध 'over, above, on'; म्रिप 'unto, close upon'"; म्रिभ 'to, unto', 'against' (often with implied violence); नि 'down, into, in'; प्रति 'back to, against, in return'; वि 'apart, away, out'.

191. Both in verbal forms and in derivatives, the final द or 3 of a prefix ordinarily lingualizes the initial # of a root to which it is prefixed; and, in a few cases, the $\boldsymbol{\eta}$ remains even after an interposed म of augment or reduplication; thus, from सद + नि, निषीदति; स्था + ऋधि, pres. pass. ऋधिष्ठीयते, impf. pass. ऋध-ष्ट्रीयतः

192. The final स of prefixes in इस and उस becomes घ before initial क्, ख्, प्, फ्; thus, from पद + निस्, निष्पदाते.

- 195. The second and third persons of the imperative express oftenest a command; sometimes a wish or future action. The negative used with the imv. is H7.
- 196. A rare imv. form, either 2nd or 3rd pers. sing. (or plur.), is made with the ending तात; thus, भवतात. Its value is that of a posterior or future imv. (like the Latin forms in to and tote).

"To-day let me initiate (inv.) my two sons": thus says the Brāhman. 24. Let the men dig a cistern.

Lesson XV.

199. Verbs, α -conjugation. Present Imperative Middle. The present imperative middle is inflected thus:

Sing. Dual. Plural.

1. लभे lábhāi लभावहे lábhāvahāi लभामहे lábhāmahāi

2. लभस्व lábhasva लभेषाम् lábhethām लभस्त्रम् lábhadhvam

3. लभताम् lábhatām लभेताम् lábhetām लभनाम् lábhantām

- 200. The first persons are really subjunctive forms. The inflection of the passive imv. is precisely similar; thus, क्रिये, क्रियस, क्रियताम, etc.
- 201. Nouns in \mathbf{z}_r . These stems, like many belonging to the consonant-declension, exhibit in their inflection a difference of stem-form: strong, middle, and weak. (For the cases called strong, etc., see Introd., § 87). In the weak cases (except loc. sing.) the stem-final is \mathbf{z}_r , which in the weakest cases is changed naturally to \mathbf{z}_r . But as regards the strong cases, the stems of this declension fall into two classes: in the one which is much the larger, comprising all the nomina agentis, and a few others the \mathbf{z}_r is vriddhied, becoming \mathbf{z}_r while in the other class, containing most nouns of relationship, the \overline{z} is gunated, becoming \overline{z} ar. In both classes, the loc. sing. has \overline{z} ar as stem-final. The ablegen, sing is of peculiar formation; and the final $\overline{\zeta}$ r is dropped in the nominative singular.

202. Nomina agentis in च्हा r, like कर्तृ m., 'doer'.

	Sing.	I	Dual.	Pl	lural.
N.	कर्ता kartā		kartārāu

L.	कर्तरि kartari	n	n	कर्तृषु ka	rtṛṣu
v.	कर्तर् kartar

- 203. Two nouns of relationship, स्त्रमू f., "sister", and नप्तृ m., 'grandson', follow this declension; but स्त्रमू makes the acc. pl. स्त्रम् svasः.
- 204. The nouns of agency are sometimes used participially, or with adjective value. The corresponding feminine-stem is made in $\frac{2}{5}$, and declined like $\frac{2}{5}$; thus, $\frac{2}{5}$ thus,
- 205. The grammarians prescribe a complete neuter declension also for bases in \overline{q} , precisely analogous with that of \overline{q} or \overline{q} , but such forms are rare.

Lesson XVI.

206. Verbs, a-conjugation. Present Optative Active. The present optative is formed from the general present-stem by the addition of a mode-sign, after which are used secondary endings (in 3rd pl. act. The us, in 1st sing. mid. A a, in 3rd pl. mid. The ran). After an a-stem, this mode-sign, in all voices, is $\frac{2}{5}$ in unaccented, which blends with the final a to \mathbf{v} e (accented, or not, according to the accent of the a): and the \mathbf{v} is maintained unchanged before a vowel-ending (AH, TH, MINH, MINH

	Similarly, विकास	nicenam alima	n dhuasan

Similarly, विश्वेयम् viçéyam, नहीयम् ndhyeyam, चोर्येयम् coráyeyam, etc.

- 207. The optative expresses: 1. wish or desire; 2 request or entreaty; 3. what is desirable or proper; 4. what may or might, can or could be. It is also largely used in conditional sentences. The subject is often indefinite and unexpressed. The negative used with the opt. is $\exists n\alpha$. Both the prescriptive and the prohibitive optative are very common.
- 208. The nouns of relationship in ऋ (except स्वमृ and नमू see § 203) gunate ऋ in the strong cases; thus, पितृ m., 'father', मातृ f., 'mother', declined as follows:

Lesson XVII.

210. Verbs, a-conjugation. Present Optative Middle. The optative middle (and passive) of a-stems, formed as shown in the preceding lesson, is inflected as follows:

Sing. Dual. Plural.

- 1. लभेय lábheya लभेवहि lábhevahi लभेमहि lábhemahi
- 2. लमेश्रास् lábhethās लमेश्राथाम् lábheyāthām लमेध्वम् lábhedhvam
- 3. लभेत lábheta लभेयाताम् lábheyātām लभेरन् lábheran

Similarly चोर्येय coryéya, संगुक्किय saingaccheya, etc.

211. Declension. The stem नी f., 'ship, boat', is entirely regular, taking throughout the normal endings, as given in § 90. Thus: नीस, नावम, नावा, etc.; नावी, नीभ्याम, etc.; नावस, नीभिस, etc.

- 212. The stems ending in long vowels (आ, ई, ज) fall into two well-marked classes: A. root-stems mostly monosyllabic and their compounds, with a comparatively small number of others inflected like them; B. derivative feminine stems in आ and ई, with a few in ज. inflected like जाया, नदी and वध. The stems of class A take the normal endings throughout, with optional exceptions in dat., abl.-gen., and loc. sing. fem., and with न inserted before आम of the gen. pl. The simple words are as nouns with few exceptions fem.; as adjectives (rare), and in adjective compounds. they coincide in masc. and fem. forms. The declension of the simple words in ई and ज has been given (in §§ 189, 197); those in आ are grare that it is not possible to make up a whole scheme of forms in actual use.
- 213. When any root in च्या or दे or ज is found as final member of a compound word, these root-finals are treated as follows:

 1. Roots in च्या lose that vowel before vowel-endings, except in the strong cases and in the acc. pl., which is like the nominative.

 Thus, विस-पा m., f., 'all-protecting':

Sing.	Dual.	Plural.
N.V. विश्वपास् -pā	ंड विश्वपीं - pāu	विश्वपास् -pās
A. विश्वपाम् -pā	m विश्वपाभ्याम्	" "
I. বিস্থা viçvaj	p-ā विश्वपोस् viçvap-os	विश्वपाभिस् etc.

214. 2. Roots in द्वे and ज change their final vowel, before vowel-endings, into य् and व्, if but one consonant precede the final vowel; but if two or more consonants precede, the change is into द्य and उव्. Thus, यव-क्रो m., f., 'corn-buying': nom.-voc. यव-क्रोस, acc. यवक्रियम; खल-पू m., f., 'street-sweeper': nom. sing. खलप्स, acc. खलप्यम्.

Vocabulary XVII.

The king with his warriors crossed the sea in a ship. 15. Tell (opt., imv.) where our friends may meet with their brothers. 16. You may amuse yourselves in the garden, but cease eating (abl. of 刊刊) the fruits (gen.). 17. Mayest thou be saved by the all-protector from thy misfortune. 18. If we two should speak untruth, then we should be punished by the king. 21. May I conquer the enemies with my brave warriors: thus is the king's wish (use 天耳 pass.). 22. May we receive the reward of virtue.

Lesson XVIII.

- 215. Causative. The chief points to be noticed in the formation of causative-stems have been given already (in Less. VII); some additional ones follow.
- 216. Most roots in आ and ऋ add ए before the conjugationsign; thus, दापर्यात from lदा; धापर्यात; गापर्यात; अर्पयति from ऋ. आ makes अपर्यात; ज्ञा and स्ता, sometimes ज्ञापर्यात, etc., sometimes ज्ञपर्यात, etc. lui, 'drink', makes पार्यात (as though from पी). A few roots in द and द take the same ए, with various irregularities; thus, अध्यापर्यात from अधि-द.
- 217. Medial or initial म्न in a light syllable is commonly lengthened, but sometimes remains unchanged. Thus, पत्, पातयति; कम्, कामयति; चम्, चामयति. But most roots in म्नम्, and जन्, लर्, प्रथ्, अथ्, अथ्, with other rarer ones, generally keep the म्न short; thus, गम्, गमयति.

- 218. Final vowels take vṛddhi before স্থায়; thus, মূ, মাৰ্যনি; কু, কাম্যনি
- 219. Some verbs of causative meaning are by formation denominatives; thus पालयति, 'protect', called causative to 2पा; प्री-ग्याति, to प्री; भीषयति, to भी; घातयति, to हन्.
 - 220. For the passive of causatives, see Less. X.
- 221. The causatives of intransitive verbs are transitive. The causatives of transitive verbs are construed sometimes (a) with two accusatives, sometimes (b) with an acc. of the object and an instrumental of the agent. Thus, "he causes the birds to eat the cakes" may be rendered either (a): विहगान पिएडान् खाद्यति, or (b) विहगै: पि॰ खा॰.
- 222. Participles. The general participial endings are ऋल् (weak form ऋत्) for the active, and ऋान for the middle. But after a tense-stem in ऋ, the active suffix is virtually न्त, one of the two ऋ's being lost; and the middle suffix is मान (except ऋान sometimes in causative forms). Thus, भवन्त bhávant, तुद्न्त् tudánt, दोव्यन्त् dívyant, चोर्यन्त् coráyant; भवमान bhávamāna, etc. For the declension of the participles in ऋन्त् see below, Less. XXIII.
- 223. Pronoun of the First Person. The pronominal declension exhibits some striking peculiarities which are not easily explained. The pronoun of the first person is declined thus:

	Sing.	Dual.	Plural.
N.	ग्रहम्	त्रावाम्	वयम्
A.	माम्, मा	त्रावाम्, नौ	ग्रसान्, नस्
I.	मया	त्रावास्याम्	त्रसाभिस्
D.	मह्यम्, मे	" , नौ	त्रसम्यम्, नस्
Ab.	मत्	n	ऋसा त्
G.	मम, मे	त्रावयोस्, नौ	त्रसावम्, नस्
L.	मिय		यसासु

224. The forms मा, मे, नी. नस are enclitic, and are never used at the beginning of a sentence, or before the particles च, एव, वा.

225. In pronouns of the first and second persons the plural is often used for the singular. Pronouns (and other words as well) show in Sanskrit a curious tendency to agree in form with the predicate rather than with the subject to which they refer.

Vocabulary XVIII.

hear, i. e. recite, proclaim (acc. of pers.).

स्था stand; in caus. (sthāpáyati) put, place; appoint; stop.

+ प्र (pratisthate) start off; in caus. (prasthāpáyati) send.

Lesson XIX.

226. Pronoun of the Second Person. This pronoun (for which the natives assume लाइ and सुष्माइ as bases) is declined thus:

	Singular.	Dual.	Plural.
Σ.	लम्	युवाम्	यूयम्
A.	लाम्, ला	युवाम्, वाम्	युष्मान्, वस्
I.	लया	युवाभ्याम्	युष्पाभिस्
D.	तुभ्यम्, ते	", वाम्	युष्मभ्यम्, वस्
Ab.	खत्	"	युष्मत्
G.	तव ते	युवयोस्, वाम्	युष्माकम्, वस्
L.	लिय	n	युष्मासु

227. The forms त्वा, ते, वाम, वस are enclitics, subject to the same rules as मा, मे, etc. (§ 224).

228. The Pronoun of the Third Person (for which the natives assume तद as base — the base is really त) is declined as follows (note nom. sing., m. and f.):

	Ma	sculine:			Feminine:
	Sing.	Dual.	Plural.	Sing.	Dual.	Plural.
N.	सस्	तौ	ते	सा	ते	तास्
A.	तम्	77	तान्	ताम्	27	'n
I.	तेन	ताभ्याम्	तैस्	तया	ताभ्याम्	ताभिस्
D.	तसी	n	तेभ्यस्	तस्वै	"	ताभ्यस्

G.	तस्य	तयोस्	तेषाम्	n	तयोस्	तासाम्
L.	तिस्मन्	n	तेषु	तस्याम्	37	तासु is made almost entirely by the genitive case, not by a derivative possessive adjective. But often the unemphatic possessive pronoun of the English is omitted in Sanskrit.

Neuter:

	Sing.	Dual.	Plural.
N.	तद्	ते	तानि
A.	27	"	"
I.	तेन	ताभ्याम्	तस् etc., as in the	masculine.

- 229. The nom. sing. masc. सस्, and its compound एषस्, lose their final स् before any consonant; before vowels, and at the end of a sentence, they follow the usual euphonic rules. Thus, स ग-च्छति, स तिष्ठति; स इच्छिति; सो इस्रति; गच्छति सः
- 230. The third personal pronoun is used oftenest as a weak or indefinite demonstrative, especially as antecedent to a relative; and often like the English "definite article."
- 231. Like त are declined: (a) एत, 'this', formed by prefixing ए to the forms of त, throughout; thus, nom. sing. m. एवस्, f. एवा, n. एतद्; (b) the relative pronoun (and adj.) स, 'which, who'; (c) comparatives and superlatives from pronominal roots, such as कतर, which (of the two)?' and कतम 'which (of the many)?' So सतर and सतम; एकतम 'one of many'; ग्रन्थ 'other', with its comparative ग्रन्थतर; and इतर 'different'. Yet other words are so inflected, but with ग्रम् instead of ग्रद् in nom.-acc.-voc. sing. neut.: as, सर्व, विश्व, 'all'; एक 'one', in pl. 'some'; उभस, f. 'श्री (only sing, and pl.). 'both'.
- 232. The interrogative pronoun क (for which the Hindus give the base as किम्) follows precisely the declension of त. except nom.-acc. sing. neut. किम्; nom. sing. m. कस्, f. का.
- 233. A number of words follow the pronominal declension in some of their significations, or optionally; but in other senses, or without known rule, lapse into the adjective inflection. Such are comparatives and superlatives from prepositional stems, as ऋधर 'lower', ऋधम 'lowest'; पर 'chief', पूर्व 'earlier', उत्तर 'upper',

'northern', হ্ৰিয়া 'southern', etc. Occasional forms of the pronominal declension are met with from numeral adjectives, and from other words having somewhat of a numeral character, as স্থাত্য 'few', সূচ্চ 'half', etc.

234. Peculiarities in the use of relative pronouns, etc. The Sanskrit often puts the relative clause before the antecedent clause, and inserts the substantive to which the relative refers into the same clause with the relative, instead of leaving it in the antecedent clause. In translating into Sanskrit, a relative clause is to be placed either before or after the whole antecedent clause; but not inserted into the antecedent clause, as is done in English. Thus, "the mountain which we saw yesterday is very high" would be in Sanskrit either: यं पर्वतं वयं ह्यो प्रशाम सो दिनोच तुङ्गः. or: स पर्वतो दिनोच तुङ्गो यं ह्यो प्रशाम; but not स पर्वतो यं वयं ह्यो प्रशाम, etc., according to the English idiom.

235. The relative word may stand anywhere in its clause; thus, ज़िव आदियेषां ते देवा: "the gods whose chief is Çiva". Sometimes relative or demonstrative adverbs are used as equivalents of certain case-forms of relative or demonstrative pronouns; thus, यव वने = यस्मिन्त्रने.

236. The repetition of the relative gives an indefinite meaning: 'whosoever, whatever'. The same result is much more commonly attained by adding to the relative the interrogative pronoun, with (or, less usually, without) one of the particles च, चन, चिट्, ग्रिप, वा. Sometimes the interrogative alone is used with these particles in a similar sense. Thus; यदिषा लथयति "whatever this woman relates"; यो यस भावः स्थात् "whatever any one's disposition may be"; यस कसे चिद्यक्ति "he gives to some one or other"; यसात्क-साचित्र लभते "he takes from no one whatever".

Lesson XX.

237. Declension of Stems in Consonants. All noun-stems in consonants may well be classed together, since the peculiarities shown by some concern only the stems themselves, and not the endings. Masculines and feminines of the same final are inflected precisely alike; and neuters are peculiar (as usually in the other declensions) only in the nom.-acc.-voc. of all numbers. But the majority of consonantal stems form a special feminine stem by adding { (never 現1) to the weak form of the masculine.

^{* &}quot;Other than thou". With म्रान्य, as with comparatives, the ablative is used.

^{ &}quot;Makes us read" (ऋघि-र्, caus.).

- 238. Variations, as between stronger and weaker forms, are very general in consonantal stems: either of strong and weak stems. or of strong, middle, and weakest. The endings are throughout the normal ones (Introd., § 90).
 - 239. The general law concerning final consonants is as follows:
- 1. The more usual etymological finals are स्, र्. म्, न्, त्. क्. प्. ट्; sporadic are ङ्, ल्, स् as finals.
- 2. In general, only one consonant, of whatever kind, is allowed to stand at the end of a word; if two or more would etymologically occur there, the last is dropped, and again the last, until but one remains.
- 3. Of the non-nasal mutes, only the first in each series, the non-aspirate surd, is allowed as final; the others surd asp., and both sonants are regularly converted into this, wherever they would etymologically occur.
- 4. A final palatal, or ह, becomes either क्, or (less often) ट्; but ह in a very few cases (where it represents original ध्) becomes त.
- 240. According to 239. 2. the \mathbf{H} of the nom. sing. m. and f., is always lost; and irregularities of treatment of the stem-final, in this case, are not infrequent.
- 241. Before the pada-endings, भ्याम, भिस्, भ्यस् and सु, a stem-final is treated as in external combination.
- 242. An aspirate mute is changed to its corresponding non-aspirate before another non-nasal mute or a sibilant; it stands unaltered only before a vowel or semivowel or nasal. Hence such a mute is doubled by prefixing its own corresponding non-aspirate.
 - 243. Consonant-stems of one form in त, दू, ध् and भ्. Before suffixal भ, both त and ध as stem-finals become द; भ as stem-final becomes व. Examples: मस्त m., 'wind'; श्रापद् f., 'misfortune'; जगत n., 'the world'.

- 245. Agreement of adjectives. If the same adjective qualify two or more substantives, it will be used in their combined number; if the substantives are masculine and feminine, the adj. will be masc.; but in a combination of masc. or fem. subjects with neuter, the adjective will be neuter.

246. Declension of Consonant-stems, cont'd. Stems in palatals, etc. 1. 250. Declension of Stems in $\mathbf{\xi}$. The stems in $\mathbf{\xi}\mathbf{\xi}$ and $\mathbf{\xi}\mathbf{\xi}$ lengthen the vowel before consonant-endings, and in nom.-sing., and the $\mathbf{\xi}$ of the nom. is lost. In the nom.-sing. the final $\mathbf{\xi}$ then becomes $\mathbf{\xi}$ (or visarga) under conditions requiring a surd as final (see § 95, 116). Thus, $\mathbf{\xi}\mathbf{\xi}\mathbf{\xi}$, 'voice'; $\mathbf{\xi}\mathbf{\xi}$, 'city'.

16. At night the moon gives light to all creatures. 17. One should sacrifice to the gods (f. 可可) in Voc. f) flowers, fruits, and milk, not living creatures. 18. The Apsarases lead into Heaven warriors fallen in battle. 19. In age (instr.), not in knowledge, Çiva is the eldest among his brothers (loc., gen.). 20. The gods live by the oblation. 21. A merchant wishes wealth (স্থা), a warrior fame, an ascetic deliverance. 22. The woman's eyes are suffused with tears.

Lesson XXIII.

255. Declension. Comparative Adjectives. Comparative adjectives of primary formation have a double form of stem for masculine and neuter: a stronger in यांस (usually ईयांस), in the strong cases, and a weaker in यस (usually ईयांस). there being no distinction of middle and weakest cases. The voc. sing. masc. ends in यन. The feminine-stem is made with ई from the weak stem-form. Thus, श्रेयांस, 'better':

	Masculine.			Neuter.
	Sing.	Dual.	Plural.	Sing		Dual.	Plural.
N.	श्रेयान्	श्रेयांसी	श्रेयांसस्	N.V. श्रेयस	Ţ	श्रेयसी	श्रेयांसि
Α.	श्रेयांसम्	n	श्रेयसस्	,,		"	"
I.	श्रेयसा	श्रेयोभ्याम्	त्रेयोभिस्	like th	e	masculi	ne.
IJ.	श्रेयमि	श्रेयसोस्	श्रेयस्, ॰यःस
v.	श्रेयन्		•

Fem. stem. श्रेयसी. declined like नदी.

256. Stems in ञ्रन् (or ञ्रत्) fall into two divisions: A. those made with the suffix ञ्रन् (ञ्रत्), being, with few exceptions, active participles, present and future; and B. those made with the possessive suffixes मन् (or मत्) and वन् (or वत्). They are masc. and neuter only, the fem. being formed with दे.

257. A. Participles in ऋन्त् (or ऋत्). E. g. जीवन्त् m., n., 'living.'

Masculine. Neuter. Sing. Dual. Plural. Sing. Dual. Plural. N.V. जीवन जीवन्तस जीवनी जीवत जोवन्ती जीवन्ति जीवन्तम जीवतस as in masculine. T. जीवद्याम जीवद्विस जीवता जीवतोस् जीवत्स् L. जीवति

258. The strong form of these participles is obtained, mechanically, by cutting off the final द् from the 3rd pl. pres. (or fut.) ind. act.; thus, नयन्ति gives strong form of pres. act. part. नयन्, weak नयत्; तिष्ठन्ति, तिष्ठन्त् and तिष्ठत्; — नह्यन्ति, नह्यन्त् and नह्यत्; — दण्डयन्ति, दण्डयन्त् and दण्डयत्; — भविष्यन्ति (fut.), भविष्यन्त् and भविष्यत्.

259. But those verbs which in the 3.d. pl. act. lose the न् of the usual नि (as e. g. the verbs following the reduplicating class in the present-system), lose it also in the present participle, and have no distinction of strong and weak stem. Thus, from / इ, 3rd pl. pres. ind. act. जुइति, part. (only stem-form) जुइत: nom.-voc. sing. masc. जुइत, acc. जुइतम: nom-voc.-acc. du. जुइती, pl. जुइतस; nom-voc.-acc. sing. neut. जुइतस, du. जुइती. pl. जुइति.

260. Only the present participles of verbs of the α-class, the yα-class, and causatives, invariably insert न in nom.-voc.-acc. du. neut. Present participles of the ά-class, of the root-class when the root ends in आ. and all future participles, may either take or reject it; thus, neut.-sing. किर्त, du. किर्ती or किर्नी; किर्णत (fut.), du. किर्जी or किर्जी; चात् (pres. part. from चा, 'go'), du. चातो or चान्ती. Participles of all other verbs, and all other stems in आत, leave out the न in the du. neut.; thus, आदत (आद 'eat', root-class), du. आदि ती.

261. The adj. महन्त्, 'great', takes in strong cases the stem-form महान्त: nom.-sing. masc. महान् (see § 239, 2), acc. महान्तम्, voc. महन : du. neut. महती, pl. महान्ति. Otherwise the inflection is like that of participles.

262. The feminine of participles and adjectives in श्रन् (or श्रत) is always made with र्द, and the form is always identical with the nom, dual neuter.

Lesson XXIV.

263. Declension. Stems in अन्त (or अत्), cont'd. B. Stems in मन्त (मत्) and वन्त (वत्). Adjectives formed with these suffixes are possessives. They are declined precisely alike"; and differ in inflection from the participles in अन्त only by lengthening the अ in the nom. sing. masc. The feminine is made in दे; thus, श्रीमती. In the dual neut. न is never inserted. Thus, श्रीमन्त, rich', 'celebrated:'

^{*} The two adjectives इ्यन्त्, 'so great', 'so many', and कि-यन्त्, 'how great?' 'how many?' are similarly declined.

264. A stem भवन्त " (to be carefully distinguished from भवन्त, pres. part. act. of भू) is frequently used in respectful address as a substitute for the pronoun of the second person. It is construed with the verb in the third person. Its nom. sing. mase is भवान (fem. भवती); and भोस, the contracted form of its older voc. भवस, is a common exclamation of address: "you, sir!", "ho, there!"; and is often doubled.

265. Derivative stems in ऋन्. These are made by the suffixes ऋन्, मन्, and वन्, and are, with one or two exceptions, masc. and neut. only. The stem has a triple form. In the strong cases of the masc. the vowel of the suffix is lengthened to ऋग्, in the weakest cases it is in general dropped; in the middle cases the final न is dropped, and it is also lost in the nom. sing. of all genders. In the neuter, the nom.-acc. pl., as being strong cases, lengthen the vowel of the suffix; the same cases in the dual (as weakest cases) lose ऋ — but this only optionally. After the म or च् of मन् and चन्, when these are preceded by a consonant, the ऋ is retained in all the weakest cases, to avoid too great an accumulation of consonants. Examples: राजन् m., 'king'; नामन् n., 'name'; ऋग्रसन् m., 'soul, self'; ऋग्रन् n., 'devotion'.

^{*} Probably contracted from भगवन्त 'blessed'.

^{} भोस् loses its final स् before all vowels and all sonant consonants; thus, भो भो ऋषे.

266. Euphonic rules. Final क्. ट् and प् remain unaltered before initial surd consonants; before sonants, whether vowel or consonant, they become respectively ग्, इ, ब्. Before nasals they may be still further assimilated, becoming the nasals इ, सा. स्. Thus, परिवाद न becomes either परिवाद or परिवास; सम्यक् न becomes सम्यम or सम्यक्. The latter method is much more usual.

267. Before initial हू a final mute is made sonant; and then the ह may either remain unchanged, or be converted into the sonant aspirate corresponding to the preceding letter; thus, either सम्यग्हसः or सम्यग्धसः; either तसाद हसात् or तसाइसात्. In practice the latter method is almost invariably followed.

^{*} When a dental mute comes in contact with a lingual or palatal mute or sibilant, the dental is usually assimilated, becoming lingual or palatal respectively. Thus, tisthati from ti-stha-ti; $r\bar{a}j\bar{n}\bar{a}$ instead of $r\bar{a}jn\bar{a}$.

Lesson XXV.

268. Declension. Perfect Active Participles in वांस. The active participles of the perfect tense-system are quite peculiar as regards the modifications of the stem. In the strong cases the suffix is वांस. which becomes वान in the nom. sing. masc., and is shortened to वन in the voc. sing. In the weakest cases the suffix is contracted into उष; and in the middle cases it is changed to वत. A union-vowel इ, if present in the strong and middle cases, disappears before उष in the weakest. Radical इ and ई, if preceded by one consonant, become च before उष, but if preceded by more than one consonant, become इस; whereas radical उ always becomes उव before उष, and radical च, र. Thus, निनीवांस, निन्युष; सुशुवांस. सुशुवृष; चकुवांस, चकुष. The feminine stem is formed with ई from the weakest stem-form; thus, निन्युषी. Examples:

272. Compounds with । अच् or अच्. The adjectives formed from this root with prepositions and other words are quite irregular. Some of them have only two stem-forms: a strong in अच् and a weak in अच्; while others distinguish from the middle in अच् a weakest stem in च्, before which the अ is contracted with a preceding द्(य्) or उ(व्) into दे or ज. The fem. is made with दे from the weakest (or weak) stem; thus, विष्यो. The principal stems of this sort are as follows:

275. The neuter stems ग्रज्ञन् 'eye', ग्रस्थन् 'bone', द्धन् 'curds', सक्थन् 'thigh', form only the weakest cases; thus, ग्रज्ञा, द्धस्, सक्थिनि or सिक्यू, etc.; the rest of the inflection is made from corresponding stems in दः; thus, nom. sing. ग्रज्ञि etc.

276. 1. ब्रह्मी f., 'goddess of fortune', makes nom. sing. ब्रह्मीस् — 2. स्त्री f., 'woman', follows a mixed declension; thus, nom. sing. स्त्री, acc. स्त्रियम् or स्त्रीम्, instr. स्त्रिया. dat. स्त्रिय, abl.-gen. स्त्रियाम्, loc. स्त्रियाम्; du. स्त्रियौ, स्त्रीभाम्, स्त्रियोम्; pl. nom. स्त्रियम्, acc. स्त्रियम् or स्त्रोम्, instr. स्त्रीभिम्, etc.; gen. स्त्रीणाम्

Not all the cases are found in use. — 3. Stem र m. (rarely f.), 'wealth': sing. रास, रायम्, राया etc.; du. रायौ, राथाम्, रायोस्; pl. रायस् (nom. and acc.), राभिस् etc.

The stem पन्धन् m., 'road', makes all the strong cases, with irregular nom. sing. पन्धास; the corresponding middle cases are made from पिं, and the weakest from पद्य; thus, acc. sing. पन्धानम्, dat. पर्थ, acc. pl. पथस्,

^{*} In the older language oftener masculine.

dat. पश्चिम्यस्. [The stems मन्यन् m., 'stirring-stick', and चृश्नु ज्ल m., an epithet of Indra, are said to follow पन्यन्.]

- 279. The stem पुंस् m., 'man', is very irregular. The strong stem is पुनांस, mid. पुन, weakest पुंस्. Thus, sing. पुनान्, पुनांसन्, पुंसा. etc., voc. पुनन्; du. पुनांसी, पुन्धान्, पुंसीस्; pl. पुनांसस्. पुंसस्, पुन्धिस् etc., पुंसु.

The stem पह m., 'foot', becomes पाइ in strong cases; and, in compounds, in the middle cases also; thus, nom. sing. पाइ, acc. पाइम, instr. पदा, etc. From द्विपद 'biped', acc. sing. दि-पाइम, pl. द्विपदम्, instr. pl. द्विपाद्वम्. [The stem पाद m., 'foot', has the complete declension of α-stems.]
- 283. The root हन् 'slay', as final member of a compound, becomes हा in nom. sing., and loses its न in the middle cases and its न in the weakest cases (but only optionally in loc. sing.). Further, when न is lost, ह in contact with न reverts to its original च; thus, नहाहन् m., 'killing a Brāhman', makes nom. sing. नहाहा, acc. 'हण्म,' instr. नहामा, etc., loc. नहामि or 'हण्स, voc. 'हन्; du. नहाहणी, 'हस्याम् etc.; pl. nom. 'हण्स, acc. 'मस.
- 284. The stems पूषन् m., n. pr., and अर्थमन् m., n. pr. (both personifications of the sun), make the nom. sing. in आ, but otherwise do not lengthen the आ; thus, nom. पूषा, acc. पूषणम्, instr. पृथा।

^{*} In compound words, an altering cause in one member sometimes lingualizes a 可 of the next following member. But a guttural or labial in direct combination with 可 sometimes prevents the combination, as in the instr. 灵祖知.

Lesson XXVII.

285. Demonstrative Pronouns. Two demonstrative-declensions are made up with particular irregularity: they are those of the pronouns अध्म and असी (for which the natives give the stem-forms as इदम and अद्म respectively). The first is a more indefinite demonstrative: 'this' or 'that'; the other signifies especially the remoter relation.

Neuter: Nom.-acc. sing. ग्रह्स, du. ग्रम्. pl. ग्रम्नि; the rest like masc. — The final ई of ग्रमी is unchangeable (cf. § 161).

288. There is a defective pronominal stem एन, which is accentless, and hence used only in situations where no emphasis falls upon it. The only forms are the following: Sing. acc. m. एनस्. n. एनट्, f. एनाम्; instr. m., n., एनेन, f. एनया. Du. acc. m. एनी, f., n., एने; gen.-loc. m., f., n., एनयीस्. Pl. acc. m. एनान्, n. एनानि, f. एनास्. — These forms may be used only when the person or object to which they refer has already been indicated by a form of अयम् or एष. Thus, अनेन कायमधीतसेनं व्याकर्ण-मधापय "this one has read the art of poetry; teach him grammar".

289. Past Passive Participle in त or न. By the suffix त — or, in a comparatively small number of verbs, न — is formed, directly from the root of the verb, and unconnected with any tensestem, a verbal adjective called the past passive participle. The fem. ends always in ्या. When this participle is made from transitive verbs, it qualifies something as having endured the action expressed by the verb; thus, द्ता dattá, 'given'; उता uktá, 'spoken'. When made from an intransitive or neuter verb, the same participle has no passive, but only an indefinite past, sense; thus. गत. 'gone'. भृत. 'been'; पतित, 'fallen'.

- 290. This participle is often used as an adjective. Very commonly, also, it supplies the place of a finite verb, when some form of ग्रस्. 'be', or भू is to be supplied; thus, स गत: "he is gone"; मया पत्रं जिल्लितम् "by me a letter was written". The neuter is frequently used as a substantive; thus, दत्तम् 'a gift'; दुरधम् 'milk'; and also as nomen actionis. Sometimes it has a present signification, particularly when made from neuter verbs; thus, स्थित (from स्था) often 'standing'.
- 291. A. With suffix न [ण]. The suffix न is taken by a number of roots. Thus:
- 1. Certain roots in आ, and in i and u-vowels; thus, घा or पी 'swell, be fat', पीन; हा 'abandon', हीन; म्ला 'wither', म्लान; चि 'destroy', चीण; या or यि 'swell', मून; लू 'cut', लून.
- 2. The roots in variable ऋ (so-called ṛ-roots), which before the suffix becomes ६ए or ऊर्, as in the pres. pass.; thus, 2कृ (किर्). कीर्ण; तृ, तीर्ण; 1पृ (पूर्) 'fill', पूर्ण.
- 3. A few roots ending in ज (which becomes ग before the न); thus, भञ्ज 'break', भगः; 1भुज 'bend', भृगः; सज्ज 'sink', सगः; रूज 'be sick', रूपः विज 'fear', विग. Also one or two others which exhibit a guttural before the नः लग 'attach', लगः त्रश्च 'cut up', वृक्ण.
- 4. A number of roots, some of them very common, in दू (which becomes न् before न): सद्, सन्न; (नि-सद्, निषस;) भिद् 'cut', भिन्न.*
- 292. Some few verbs make double forms; thus, ख्र् 'hasten', तूर्य or खरित; विद् 'acquire', विज्ञ or वित्तः

^{*} Commonest exceptions: खादित from खाद 'eat'; मत्त from मद; मुदित from मुद् 'rejoice'; म्दित from मृद् 'weep'; उदित from वद 'speak'; विदित from विद 'know'.

Lesson XXVIII.

293. Past Passive Participle, cont'd. B With suffix 7.

I. Without union-vowel इ. Much more commonly this parti-

^{* &}quot;I am so-and-so; N. or M."

^{} Translate the pronoun-forms by 'here', and cf. § 225.

294. If the root end in a consonant other than ज्, त्, प्, स्, the ordinary rules of euphonic combination apply as follows:

- 1. Final च् and ज् become क्; thus, सिता from सिच्; युता from युज्; त्यता from त्यज्.
- 2. Final श् becomes ष्, after which, as also after radical final ष्, त् becomes ट्; thus. दृष्ट from दृश्; दृष्ट from दृष्, दृष्ट from दृष, entrary and मृष्ट are made from मृज् and मृज, and दृष्ट from यज्, contrary to 1. प्रक् makes पृष्ट; and तच्, तष्ट.
- 3. Final ध् becomes द्. and भ्, ब्; and the following त् becomes ध; thus, वृद्ध from वृध्, लट्ध from लभ्.
- 4. Final ह is treated in various ways, according to its historical value. a. Sometimes ह combines with त to form ह, before which short vowels (except च्छ) are lengthened; thus, गाढ from गाह, लोड from लिह, रूढ from रह; मूढ from मुह; but दृढ from दृह. सह forms सोढ. b. Where ह represents original घ, the combination is रघ; thus, दरघ from दह; दिग्ध from दिह; दुग्ध from दुह. The root मुह forms also मुग्ध. c. नह, where ह represents original घ, makes नद्य.
- 295. The root before त usually has its weakest form, if there is any where in the verbal system a distinction of strong and weak forms. Thus: 1. A penultimate nasal is dropped; e. g., ऋत from ऋझ; वह from बन्ध; सन्त from संस् (or सस्); ग्रस्त from ग्रंस.
 2. Roots which are abbreviated in the weak forms of the perfect suffer the same abbreviation here; e. g., ऊत from वच्, उप्त from वप्, स्पृतिक स्वप्, ऊढ from वह; इष्ट from यज् (the same form from इष्); विद्य from व्यथ; पृष्ठ from प्रक्. 3. Final ऋा is weakened to द्रे in गीत from गा 'sing', पीत from 1पा 'drink'; to द in स्थित from स्था, हित from धा 'put' (with ध also changed to ह), सित from मा 'measure', and a few others. 4. A final म् is lost after ऋ in गत, यत, नत, रत (from गम् etc.); and likewise final न् in चत, तत. मत, वत, हत (from चन् etc.). 5. Isolated cases are शिष्ट from शास; द्त from दीव 'play'.

296. More irregular are the following:

- 1. Some roots in ऋम् make participles in ऋान्त; thus, कान्त, आ्रान्त, ज्ञान्त, तान्त, दान्त, श्रान्त, श्रान्त, श्रान्त, from काम् etc.
 - 2. जन्, चन्. and सन् make जात etc.
- 3. The root 1दा, 'give', forms दत्त (from the derivative form द्ह्). The contracted form त्त is widely found in composition, especially with prepositions; thus, प्रदत्त or प्रत. निदत्त or नीत्त, etc.
- 297. II. With union-vowel इ. The suffix with इ, or in the form इत, is regularly used with the derivative verb-stems in secondary conjugation, also often with roots of derivative character (like जिन्द, हिंस), and not infrequently with original roots.
- 298. When द्त is added to causative and denominative verbstems the syllables ऋच are dropped; thus. चुर्. pass. part. चोरित; गण्य, गण्ति; तड्. ताडित; मृ, caus. मार्यति, caus. pass. part. मारित; हन्, caus. घातयित, घातित.
- 299. Among the original roots taking द्त may be noticed the following:

पत् 'fall', पिततः कुप्, कुपितः वस् 'dwell', उषितः श्वस् श्वसितः तृष् 'thirst'. तृषितः जिख्, जिखितः ईच्, ईचितः वद्, उदितः ग्रह makes गृहीतः श्री 'lie' makes श्चितः

300. A few roots form this participle either with or without the auxiliary द; thus, मत्त and मदित from मद

301. The grammarians reckon as participles of the na-formation a few derivative adjectives, coming from roots which do not make a regular participle; such are चाम 'burnt' (चा); कृश 'thin', 'haggard' (कृश्); पञ्ज 'ripe' (पच्); शुद्ध 'dry' (शुष्); फुद्ध 'expanded' (फुन्).

302. Past Active Participle in तवन्त् (or नवन्त्). past pass. part. is made, by adding the possessive suffix वन्त् (f. वती), a secondary derivative having the meaning and construction of a perfect active participle; thus, कृतवन्त, प्रतिपन्नवन्त्-

303. This participle is almost always used predicatively, and generally without expressed copula, i. e., with the value of a personal perfect-form. Thus, मां न किश्हष्टवान् "no one has seen me''; or, with copula, महत्लृच्छ्रं प्राप्तवत्यसि "thou (fem.) hast come into great misery". This participle comes to be made even from intransitives; thus, सा गतवती "she has gone".

The Yavanas approached and besieged the city (pass.). 13. Finally the Yavanas, proving victorious (past act. part.), entered the city by force. 14. The young and old men were mostly murdered; the women made slaves; the great possessions of the citizens plundered, the palaces and houses burnt with fire. 15. The end of Pṛthvīrāja has been described by the Yavanas, and his previous life sung by the poet Canda.

Lesson XXIX.

304. Gerund, or Absolutive. The gerund is made in classical Sanskrit by one of the suffixes ह्वा and दा.

305. A. ह्वा. To uncompounded roots is added the suffix ह्वा. It is usually added directly to the root, but sometimes with the vowel इ interposed. With regard to the use of इ, and to the form of root before it, this formation closely agrees with that of the participle in त or न. A final root-consonant is treated as before त. Roots which make the past pass. part. in न generally reject इ before ह्वा.

Examples. 1. Without inserted द: ज्ञाला, जिला, नीला, युला, मूला; खिला from खा, हिला from घा 'place' (cf. हित) and from हा, दला from दा (cf. दत्त), गीला from गा; उला from वच, युला from युज्; गला from गम, मला from अन, विला from 2विद् 'find'; तीला from तृ (cf. तीर्ण), पूर्ला from पृ (cf. पूर्ण); दृष्टा from दृष्, मृष्टा from मृज, द्षा from यज्ञ (cf. § 295, 2), बुज्जा from बुध, खब्धा from सम, दग्धा from दह.

- 2. With inserted द: विद्ला from 1विद् 'know', उषिला from वस 'dwell', श्यला from शी (cf. श्यत), गृहीला from ग्रह् (cf. गृहीत).
- 306. Some verbs make both forms; thus, from खुन् either खु-निला or खाला; from भूम either भूमिला or भान्ला.
- 307. Causatives and denominatives in त्रय make त्रयिता; thus, चुर्, चोरयिता; तड्. ताडियता; स्थापयित, स्थापयिताः
- 308. B. स. Roots in composition with prepositions (or sometimes with elements of other kinds, as adverbs or nouns) take the suffix स, before which द is never inserted. A root which ends in a short vowel adds त before स. Thus, परिणीस, अनुभूय; → वि-जिल, संस्तृत, अधील (अधि-द) अधिकृतः
- 309. Roots in अम् and अन् whose pass. part. ends in अत form this gerund in आता; thus, ॰गता. ॰हता. But such am-roots (not an-roots) may preserve the nasal; thus, ॰गता. Final changeable म् becomes देर् or ऊर्; thus, ॰तीर्य, ॰पूर्य. Final आ remains unaltered; thus, आदाय. Some roots show a weak form before this suffix; thus, प्रगृह्य, संपृच्छ्य; प्रोच्य (प्र-उच्य) from प्र-वच्; अन्य from अन्-वद्; अ्ह्य from वि-वहः

310. Causals and denominatives in श्रय reject those syllables; thus, प्रचोर्यति, प्रचोर्य; प्रताद्धः; प्रस्थाप्यः श्रवधात्यः श्रानाययति (श्रा-नी). श्रानाथ्यः But if the root ends in a single consonant and encloses short श्र which is not lengthened in the causative, then the gerund of the caus. ends in श्रयः, to distinguish it from the gerund of the simple verb; thus, श्रव-गम्, ger. श्रवगस्य; caus. श्रव-गम्यति, ger. श्रवगस्यः

311. The gerund or absolutive is used generally as logical adjunct to the subject of a clause. It denotes an action accompanying or (usually) preceding that which is signified by the verb of the clause. (In the later language it is not always confined to the grammatical subject of the clause as an adjunct.) It has thus virtually the value of an indeclinable participle, present or past, qualifying the actor whose action it describes.

Thus, तद् त्राकार्ष च्हागं त्यत्वा स्नाखा स्वगृहं गतः "having heard this, having abandoned the goat, having bathed, he went to his own house".*

- 312. The gerunds of some verbs have not much more than prepositional value; thus, मादाय 'having taken', i. e. 'with', like Greek λαβω'ν, ἔχων; सुन्ता 'having released', i. e. 'without', 'except'.
- 313. Before all gerunds may be used the privative মুন্ or মু; thus, মূলভথা "without having received"; মুনাহ্য "without having summoned."

Vocabulary XXIX.

Verbs: ग्राप् acquire, attain, reach. ग्रस् + नि (nyásyati) entrust (to द + प्र go forth; die. one's care).

^{*} Of course the absolutives are often best rendered by relative clauses, or even by clauses coordinate with the principal clause.

का + अधि put at the head, ap- | जय m., victory. point as ruler over (loc.).

चल + प्र (pracalati) move on, पन्न m., wing; side; party. maich.

चिन्त (cintáyati) consider.

च्य (cyávate) totter, fall.

टा + आ take. Cf. § 312.

धा + सम-आ lay or place on.

नी + निस (nirṇáyati) bring to an end, determine, settle.

भज + वि (vibhájati, -te) distribute. व्रज + प्र(pravrájati) wander forth; leave one's home to become a wandering ascetic.

Lesson XXX.

314. Infinitive. The later language has a single infinitive. the ending of which is तुम् (or इतुम्). The root takes guṇa, when possible.

315. The ending तुम् is added directly:

- 1. To almost all roots ending in vowels, except those in ज and changeable च्छ. Thus, पा, पातुम; दा, दातुम; जि, जेतुम; नी, नेतुम; श्र. श्रोतुम; कु, कर्तुम.
 - 2. To a number of roots ending in consonants. As root-finals, क्. त्. प् and स् remain unchanged before तुम; thus, श्क्, श्तुम; मन्, मन्तुम; श्राप, श्रापुम; चिप, चेपुम; लुप, लोपुम; श्रप 'curse', श्रुम; वेवस 'dwell', वस्तुम.— Other finals are changed according to the rules given in Lesson XXVIII for the conversion of final consonants before the participial suffix त. Thus, पच, पक्तुम; खज, खक्तुम; हुण, द्रष्टुम*; स्पृण, स्प्रुम्; कृष, अश्रुम; प्रक्, प्रथुम; यज, यष्टुम; सृज, स्रप्टुम*; कृष, कोडुम; कम, स्रुम; कह, रोडुम; वह, वोडुम; द्ह, द्र्युम; नह, कडुम.— Final द्र becomes त, and final म, न; thus, ऋद, श्रनुम; विद्र 'know', वित्तुम (also विदितुम); गम, गन्तुम.

- 316. The ending तुम् with द् (in the form द्तुम्) is taken by roots in final long क and the root शी, with a few other vowel-roots; by the majority of roots in consonants; and by verbs of the secondary conjugations. Thus, भू, भिवतुम; शी, श्यतुम; ईच, ईचित्म; वन्द्र, वन्दित्म; गुह, गूहितुम (cf. § 101).
- 317. Causatives and denominatives in श्रय have श्रयितुम्, the root being treated as in the present; thus, चुर्, चोर्यितुम; कथ्, काथितुमः तड् ताडियितुमः
- 318. Some roots in consonants insert or reject द् at pleasure; thus, मृज, सार्जित्म or माधुम . The root ग्रह makes ग्रहीत्म.
- 319. The rules for the use of ξ in the infinitive agree closely with those governing its use in the formation of the s-future and of the nomen agentis in η .
- 320. Uses of the infinitive. The chief use of the infinitive is as equivalent to an accusative, as the object of a verb, especially of the verbs भूक् 'be able', and श्रहें 'be worthy', 'have the right

^{*} The increments of ऋ are sometimes र and रा instead of ऋर् and ऋार्; especially where a difficult combination of consonants is thus avoided.

^{} In all the tense-systems, and in derivation, the root मृज् exhibits often the vrddhi instead of the guna-strengthening.

or power'; thus, कथियतुं भ्राति "he is able to tell"; श्रोतुमहिति कुमार: "the prince ought to hear it". श्रह is often thus used with the infinitive to express a respectful request or entreaty. as in the last example. The infinitive is also often found with verbs of motion, and with those meaning 'desire', 'hope', 'notice', 'know', and the like.

- 32!. But often the infinitive has a case-value not accusative. Thus, a dative value: अवित भोत्तुमन्नम् "there is food to eat" i. e. "for eating"; a genitive value: समयो गन्तुम् "capable of going". Even a construction as nominative is not unknown.
- 322. In certain connections the infinitive has a quasi-passive force. Thus, कर्तुमार्ट्य: "begun to be made"; त्रोतं न युज्यते "it is not fit to be heard." This is especially frequent along with the passive forms of प्रक; thus, त्यतं न प्रकोति "he cannot abandon", but त्यतं न प्रकाति "he cannot be abandoned"; नरी प्रव्याविहानेतुम् "the two men can be brought hither."
- 323. Future Passive Participle, or Gerundive. Certain derivative adjectives, mostly secondary, have acquired a value quite like that of the Latin gerundive; thus, कार्य (from कू) 'to be done', faciendus. They may be made from every verb. The ordinary suffixes are three: य. तथ, and अनीय.
- 324. A. Suffix य.* a. Before this suffix final radical आ becomes ए; thus, from दा, देश; गा, गेय. b. Other final vowels sometimes remain unchanged, sometimes have the guṇa or even the vṛddhi-strengthening; and ए often, and आ always, are treated before य as before a vowel; thus, from जि, जेय and जय; from भी, भेय and भय; from यु, यूच्य and याच; from कु, कार्य; from धू. धूर; from भू. भाच. c. In a few instances, a short vowel adds त before the suffix; thus, द्या (द्), यूद्य (यू), जृत्य (क्). d. Medial य remains unchanged in one class of words, and is lengthened in another class; thus, द्रभ्य, वन्द्य, सद्य, but माद्य (मद्र), वाच्य (वच्). e. Initial or medial i, u, and r-vowels are sometimes unchanged, sometimes have the guṇa-strengthening; thus, ई्डा, गृह्य, तृद्य; वेदा, चोधा बोधा f. The root शास makes शिषा A form वधा (from the defective root वध्) is assigned to हन्. ग्रा-लभ् makes ग्रालभ्य and ब्राह्मस्य. g. Causatives and denominatives in ब्रय are treated as in the present, but omit the syllables ग्रय; thus, चुर्, चोर्यः

- 325. B. Suffix तवा. This is a secondary adjective derivative from the infinitival noun in त. Hence, both as regards the form of root and the use or omission of \(\xi$, the rules are the same as for the formation of the infinitive; thus, वत्तवा, लब्धवा, वन्दितवा, श्रीध-तय (शो).
- 326. C. Suffix अनीय ऋणीय Generally radical vowels will be found gunated before this suffix; causatives and denominatives in अय are treated as in the present-system, without the syllables ऋय; thus, दानीय (दा), गानीय (गा), श्रवणीय (श्रु), बो-धनीय, चोरणीय, गृहनीय (गृहयति).
- 327. The gerundives in तथ are common in the impersonal passive construction described in Lesson X, and not seldom have a purely future sense; thus, तेन त्वा सुख्ना भवितव्यम् " with that thou shalt be happy".

Lesson XXXI.

328. Numerals. Cardinals: एक 1, द् 2, चि 3. चतुर् 4, पञ्च 5, पण् 6. सप्त 7. अप्ट 8, नव 9, दश् 10. — एकादश् 11, दादश् 12, चयोदश् 13, चतुर्श् 14, पञ्चदश् 15, षोडश् 16, सप्तदश् 17, अप्टादश् 18, नवदश् 19, विंश्ति 20. — एकविंशित 21. दाविंशित 22, etc. — चिंशित 30, चलारिंशित 40, पञ्चाशित 50, षिट 60, सप्तति 70, अशीति 80, नविंति 90, श्त 100. — दिश्त or देशित 200. — सहस्र 1000, दिसहस्र or देशहर्से 2000, श्तमहस्र or लच्च 100000.

329. The numbers between the even tens are made by prefixing the unit-number to the ten; thus, पञ्चविंग्राति 25. But note: एकाद्ग्, not एकद्ग्, 11. 42, 52, 62, 72 and 92, either द्विच्छा-रिंग्रत् or दाच°, etc.; 43—73, and 93, either चि॰ or चयस्छा॰ etc.; 48—78, and 98, either ऋष्ट॰ or ऋष्टाच्छा॰ etc. 96 is प्राचिति. ▲

330. There are other ways of expressing the numbers between the tens. Thus: 1. By the use of the adj. জন 'deficient', in composition; e. g. एकोनविंश्ति '20 less 1', i. e. 19. This usage is not common except for the nines. Sometimes एक is left off, and জনবিঁগ্নি, etc., have the same value. 2. By the adj. স্থানিক or ভালা 'more', also in composition; e. g., স্থানিকান্বনি (also স্থানিকান্বনি) 98.

- 331. The same methods are used to form the odd numbers above 100. Thus. एकश्तम् 101. त्रष्टाश्तम् 108, पञ्चाधिकं श्तम् 105. सप्तीत्तरं शतम् 107.
- 332. Inflection of cardinals. 1. एक is declined like स्वं, at § 231 (pl.: 'some', 'certain ones'). The dual does not occur. एक sometimes means 'a certain'; or even 'an, a', as an indefinite article.
- 2. द्व (dual only) is quite regular; thus, nom.-acc.-voc. m.. द्वी. f. n. दे; द्वाभ्याम, द्व्योस.
- 3. चि is in masc, and neut, nearly regular; the fem. has the stem तिसृ. Thus, nom. m. चयस्, acc. m. चीन्, nom.-acc. n. चीणि; instr. चिभिस्. dat.-abl. चिश्वस्, gen. चयाणाम्, loc. चिषु. Fem.: nom.-acc. तिस्रस्, instr. तिसृभिस्. dat.-abl. तिसृश्यस्. gen. तिसृणाम्, loc. तिसृषु.
- 4. चतुर् has चलार् in strong cases; the fem. stem is चतमृ Thus, nom. m. चलारस्, acc. m. चतुरसः nom.-acc. n. चलारि; instr. चतुर्भिस् etc. Fem.: nom.-acc. चतस्रस्. instr, etc.. चतमृभिस् चतमृथसः चतमृथामः, चतमृषु
- (5-19.) These numbers have no distinction of gender. They are inflected with some irregularity as plurals. Thus:
- 5. 7, 9, 10. पञ्च. पञ्चभिस्, °भ्यस् पञ्चानाम्, पञ्चसुः सप्तः नव, दश्. and compounds of दश्, are similarly declined.
 - 6. षष् as follows: षट्, षड्भिस्, षड्भ्यस् षसाम्, षट्सु
- 8. ऋष्ट may follow पञ्च, or be declined thus: ऋष्टौ. ऋष्टाभिस्, भ्यास्, ऋष्टानाम्, ऋष्टास्
- 20, 30, etc. विंश्वति, विंश्वत्, etc., are declined regularly as fem. stems, in all numbers.
- 100, 1000. भूत and सहस्र are declined regularly as neut. stems, in all numbers.
- 333. Construction of numerals. 1. The words from 1 to 19 are used as adjectives, agreeing in case (and in gender, if possible) with the nouns. 2. The numerals above 19 are usually treated as nouns, either taking the numbered noun as a dependent genitive, or standing in the sing. in apposition with it; thus, भूतं दासीनाम् or भूतं दासी: "a hundred female slaves"; षथा भ्रत्सु "in sixty autumns".

334. Ordinals. प्रथम 'first', द्वितीय, तृतोय, चतुर्थ, पञ्चम, ष्ठ, सप्तम, ऋष्टम, नवम, द्श्म. एकादश् (to 19th, the same as the cardinals, but declined like द्व, etc.); विंश् or विंश्तितम 20th; चिंशू or चिंशूत्तम 30th, etc. Note also एकोनविंश् or ऊनविंश्, एकोनविंग्रतितम् or जनविंग्रतितम्, 19th. The shorter forms (विंग्र etc.) are by far the commoner.

335. प्रथम, द्वितीय and तृतीय make their fem. in ॰आ; the rest, in ६. Occasional forms of the pronominal declension are met with from the first three; but the usual declension of nouns is the normal one for ordinals also.

336. Numeral adverbs. 1. सकृत् 'once'; द्विस 'twice'; निस् 'thrice'; चतुस् 'four times'; पञ्चकृत्वस् or पञ्चवारम् 'five times'; and so on, with °कृत्वस् or °वारम् — 2. एकधा 'in one way'; दिधा or देधा 'in two ways'; विधा or विधा, चतुर्धा, पञ्चधा, षोढा or षड्धा, etc — 3. एकश्स् 'one by one'; श्तश्स् 'by hundreds', etc.

Lesson XXXII.

- 337. Comparison of Adjectives. Derivative adjectives having comparative and superlative meaning or often, and more originally, a merely intensive value are made either (A.) directly from roots (by primary derivation), or (B) from other derivative or compound stems (by secondary derivation).
- 338. A. The suffixes of primary derivation are \tilde{\ti
- 339. Thus चैपीयस् and चैपिष्ठ (। चिप्) attach themselves to चिप्र 'quick'; वरीयस् and वरिष्ठ (। वृ 'encompass'), to उर् 'broad'; पापीयस् and पापिष्ठ, 'worse' and 'worst', to the subst. पाप; पटीयस् and पटिष्ठ, to पटु 'skilful'; महीयस् and महिष्ठ to

महन्त्; वलीयस् and वलिष्ठः, to वलिन् or वलवन्त्; साधीयस् and साधिष्ठ to साध

340. The following are examples of artificial connections:

श्रात्तक 'near', नेदीयस्, नेदिष्ठ; ऋत्य 'little', कानीयस् कानिष्ठ (but also ऋत्यीयस्, ऋत्यिष्ठ); गुरू 'heavy', गरीयस् गरिष्ठ; दीर्घ 'long', द्राधीयस्, द्राधिष्ठ; प्रश्नस्य 'praiseworthy', 'good', श्रेयस् 'better', श्रेष्ठ 'best'; प्रिय 'dear', प्रेयस्, प्रेष्ठ; बज्ज 'much', श्रूयस्, भ्रूयिष्ठ; युवन् 'young', यवीयस्, यिष्ठ; वृद्ध 'old', वर्षीयस्, व-र्षिष्ठ, ज्यायस् and ज्येष्ठ correspond sometimes to प्रश्नस्य or साधु, sometimes to वृद्ध.

341. The stems in दृष्ठ are inflected like ordinary adjectives in म्न, with the fem. in न्ना; those in ईयस् have a peculiar declension, with a strong stem in ई्यांस, and fem. ईयसी, for which see § 255. So also ज्यायस् and भ्यस्.

342. B. The suffixes of secondary derivation are तर् and तस They are of almost unrestricted use. That form of stem is usually taken which appears before an initial consonant of a case-ending. Stems in श्रम are always unchanged; final इस and उस् become इस् and उस्. after which the त् of the suffix becomes ट्र.

Thus, प्रियवाच्, प्रियवाक्तर, °क्तमः धनिन्, धनितर, °तमः वि-द्वांस, विद्तत्तर, °त्तमः

- 343. Some stems which are substantives rather than adjectives are found to form derivatives of comparison; thus, मातृतम 'most motherly', नृतम 'most manly', गजतम 'most like an elephant.'
- 344. Comparison of Adverbs. Adverbs are compared by adding the suffixes in the forms तराम् and तमाम; thus. सु 'well', सुत-राम्, सुतमाम्.
- 345. Construction. With a comparative (and sometimes with other words used in a similar way) the ablative is the regular construction; thus, पुचालान्या तस्य प्रेयसी "a daughter is dearer to him than a son"; मतिर्व बलाइरीयसी "intellect alone is stronger than force". After the superlative either genitive or locative may be used. The comparative often has the force of a strengthened superlative; thus, गरीयान 'most honorable'.

Lesson XXXIII.

(Part I.)

- 346. Compounds. In all periods of the language the combination of stems of declension with one another, forming compounds which are treated in accent, inflection and construction as if simple words, is one of the most striking peculiarities of the Sanskrit tongue. In the Vedic period compounds of more than two elements are rare. In the later language this moderation is abandoned; and the later the period, and especially the more elaborate the style of composition, the more unwieldy and difficult do the compounds become. To such an extent is this carried that the advantages of an inflective language are often deliberately thrown away, and a clumsy aggregation of elements replaces the due syntactical union of inflected words into sentences.
 - 347. Sanskrit compounds fall into three principal classes:
- I. Copulative or Aggregative compounds, of which the members are syntactically coordinate: a joining together of words which in an uncompounded state would be connected by 'and'.* E. g. कु-ताकृतम् 'done and undone'; देवगन्धर्वमानुषाः 'gods and Gandharvas and men'. The members of such a compound may obviously be of any number, two or more.

II. Determinative compounds, of which the former member is syntactically dependent on the latter, as its determining or qualifying adjunct: being either a noun limiting it in a case-relation, or an adjective or an adverb describing it. Thus may be distinguished two sub-classes: A. Dependent, and B. Descriptive, compounds; their difference is not absolute.

Examples are: of dependents, श्रासदिसेना 'army of enemies'; पादोदक 'water for the feet'; हस्तकृत 'made with hands'; — of descriptives, महाराज 'great king'; प्रियसख (§ 353, 2) 'dear friend'; दुष्कृत 'badly done'.

348. The character of compounds of classes I. and II., as parts of speech, is determined by their final member, and they are capable of being resolved into equivalent phrases by giving the proper independent form and formal means of connection to each member. But this is not true of the third class, which accordingly is more fundamentally distinct from them than they from each other.

349. III. Secondary Adjective compounds, the value of which is not given by a simple resolution into their component parts, but which, though having as final member a noun, are themselves adjectives. These again are of two sub-classes: A. Possessive compounds, which are noun-compounds of the preceding class (II. A. or B.), with the idea of 'having' added, turning them from nouns into adjectives; and B. compounds in which the second member is a noun syntactically dependent on the first: namely, 1. Participial compounds (only Vedic), of a present participle with its following object; and 2. Prepositional compounds, of a preposition and following noun. This whole sub-class B is comparatively small.

^{*} This class of compounds is of comparatively recent development; only the other two are common in others of the related tongues.

Examples: वीर्सन 'possessing a hero-army'; प्रजाकास 'having desire of progeny'; त्रातिसाच 'excessive'.

- 350. The adjective compounds are, like simple adjectives, sometimes used, especially in the neuter, as abstract and collective nouns; and in the accusative as adverbs. Out of these uses have grown apparent classes of compounds, reckoned and named as such by the Hindu grammarians.
- 351. A compound may, like a simple word, become a member in another compound, and so on indefinitely. The analysis of a compound (except copulatives), of whatever length, must be made by a series of bisections. Thus the dependent compound पूर्वजन्मकृत, 'done in a previous existence', is first divisible into कृत and the descriptive प्रविजन्मन, then this into its two elements.
- 352. Euphonic combination in compounds. The final of a stem is combined with the initial of another stem in composition according to the general rules for external combination. But:
- 1. Final द्स् and उस् of a prior member become द्घ् and उष् before surd gutturals, dentals, and labials; thus, ज्योतिष्कृत्.
- 2. Final 現代 of a prior member often remains unchanged under similar circumstances.
 - 3. After final द, ज, भू, an initial स often becomes lingual.
- 4. Pronouns generally take the stem-form of the neuter; for the personal pronouns are oftenest used मद् and खद in the sing., ऋस्द and युपाद in the pl.
- 5. For महन्त्, in the prior member of descriptive and possessive compounds, is used महा.
 - 6. A case-form in the prior member is not very rare.

353. In all classes of compounds, certain changes of final are liable to appear in the concluding member; generally they have the effect of transferring the compound as a whole to the α-declension. Thus: 1. A stem in স্থাল often drops the final ল, as in ° সাহ, ° সাহ, ° মুর্ছ, ° মুর্ছ, ° মার্ছ, ° ম

The separate classes of compounds will now be taken up.

(Part II.)

- 354. I. Copulative compounds. Two or more nouns much less often adjectives, and once or twice adverbs having a coordinate construction, as though joined by 'and', are sometimes combined into a compound.*
- 355. The noun-compounds fall, as regards their inflective form, into two classes:
- A. The compound has the gender and declension of its final member, and is in number a dual or plural, according to its logical value as denoting either two, or more than two, individual things. Examples are: রীহিঘ্রী 'rice and barley'; নাম্কূআ্লী 'Rāma and Kṛṣṇa'; সুরাব্য: 'goats and sheep'; রায়্যেত্রিঘরষ্মেত্র: 'Brāhmans, Kṣatriyas, Vāiçyas and Çūdras'; িথ্নামুরী (§ 352, 6) 'father and son'.
- B. The compound, without regard to the number denoted or to the gender of its constituents, becomes a neuter singular collective (so-called samāhāra-dvandva). Thus, पाणिपादम 'hand and foot'; सर्पनकुजम 'snake and ichneumon'; इस्तोपानहम (§ 353, 3) 'umbrella and shoe'; ऋहोराचम (§ 353, 2) 'day and night'.
 - 356. The later language preserves several dual combinations

^{*} This class is called by the Hindus dvandva, 'couple'; but a dvandva of adjectives they do not recognize.

of the names of divinities, etc., which retain their earlier forms; thus, द्यावापृथि भी and द्यावाभूमी 'Heaven and Earth'; मित्रा-वस्ता 'Mitra and Varuna'; त्रशियोमी 'Agni and Soma'.

- 357. Adjective copulative compounds are made likewise. but are rare. Examples are: शुक्क कृषण 'light and dark'; वृत्तपीन 'round and plump'; ' स्वातान्तिम 'bathed and anointed'.
- 358. Determinative compounds. A noun or adjective is often combined into a compound with a preceding determining or qualifying word a noun or adjective or adverb. The two principal divisions of this class are, as indicated above, A. Dependent, and B. Descriptive, compounds. Each class falls into two subdivisions, according as the final member, and therefore the whole compound, is noun or adjective.
- 359. A. Dependent compounds. 1. Noun-compounds. The case-relation of the prior to the second member may be of any kind, but is oftenest genitive, and least often accusative. Thus, तत्पुरुष = तस्य पुरुष:; मूर्खभ्तानि 'hundreds of fools'; पादोदक (= पादेश उदकम्) 'water for the feet'; विद्याधन 'money (obtained) by science'; आत्मसादृश्च (= आत्मना सादृश्चम्) 'likeness with self'; चौरभय (= चौराद्वयम्) 'fear of a thief'; जलकीडा (= जले क्री॰) 'sport in the water'; नगरगमन (= नगरंग॰) 'going to the city'; वाचस्पति 'lord of speech', n. pr. (§ 352, 6.).
- 360. 2. Dependent adjective compounds. Only a very small proportion of the compounds of this class have an ordinary adjective as final member; usually the final member is a participle, or a derivative of agency with the value of a participle (§ 204). The prior member stands in any possible case-relation. Thus, ग्रामगत 'gone to the village'; वेद्बद् 'Veda-knowing'; — ग्रिवर्चित 'protected by Çiva'; गोहित (= गवे हित:) 'good for the cow'; — स्वर्गपतित 'fallen from the sky'; तरङ्गचञ्चनतर 'more mobile than waves'; — द्विजोत्तम (= द्विजानाम् उत्तमः) 'best of Brāhmans'; — स्थालोपञ्च 'cooked in a pot'.

^{*} The Hindus reckon these as karmadhārayas (see next note).

- 361. Compounds of this sort having as final member the bare root sometimes modified in form, and, if it end originally in a short vowel, generally with an added त are very numerous: thus, वेदविद् above (§ 360); रथस्य 'standing in the wagon' (or simply 'in the wagon'); मूर्ध्य 'on the head'; एक्ज 'only-born'; वनेचर (§ 352, 6) 'forest-dwelling'; यिधिष्टर 'firm in battle' मन-सिज 'born in the heart' (i. e. 'love').
- 362. B. Descriptive compounds. In this division of the determinatives, the prior member stands to the other in no distinct caserelation, but qualifies it adjectively or adverbially, according as the final member is noun or adjective. Thus, प्रयसख (§ 353, 2); सुकृत 'well-done'; दुष्कृत 'evil-doing' (adj.).

The compounds of noun-value cannot well be separated in treatment from those of adjective-value.

- 363. The simplest case is that in which a noun as final member is preceded by a qualifying adjective as prior member. Thus, कुप्णाश्च (= कुप्णी (श्व:) 'black horse'; महापुर्ष 'great man'. Instead of an adjective, the prior member is in a few cases a noun used appositionally or with a quasi-adjective value; thus, ब्रह्मपि 'priest-sage'; राजिषि 'king-sage'.
- 364. Sometimes compounds of this sort express a comparison; thus, ঘৰয়াম 'black as a thunder-cloud' (cf. 'coal-black', etc.). Reversed, পুৰুষ্যায় 'man-tiger', i. e., 'a man fierce as a tiger';*

^{*} Literally, a tiger which is not a tiger after all, but a man. Or, perhaps better, 'tiger of (or among) men' (so Whitney).

नरसिंह 'man-lion'; पादपद्म 'foot-lotus', i. e. 'a foot lovely as a lotus'.

365. The adverbial words most commonly used as prior members of descriptive compounds, qualifying the other member, are the verbal prefixes ("prepositions"), and the words of direction related to them; likewise the inseparable prefixes अन् or अ privative, स 'well', दुस 'ill', etc. These are combined with nouns (in quasi-adjectival value) as well as with adjectives. Thus, त्रकृत 'not done'; अपण्डित 'not a scholar'; अनर्थ 'misfortune'; अतिदेव 'more than a god'; 羽而東文 'exceedingly far'; 羽而和田 'excessive fear'; प्रतिपन्न 'opposing side.'

Lesson XXXIV.

- 366. III. Secondary Adjective Compounds. A compound with a noun as final member very often wins secondarily the value of an adjective, being inflected in the three genders to agree with the noun which it qualifies, and used in all the constructions of an adjective. The two divisions of this class have been given above (§ 349).
- 367. Certain changes are sometimes necessary in the stem of the final member to make possible the inflection in different genders. Masc. and neut. stems in म्न, and fem. in म्ना, generally interchange; thus, from मु + हस्त comes the compound मुहस्त 'with excellent hands', nom. sing. मुहस्तम्, 'स्ता, 'स्तम्; so also (from चि + जिहा) चिजिह्म, 'हा, 'हम; and (from मु + फला) मुफलम, 'ला, 'लाम्. The same holds good for masc., fem., and neut. stems in द्वाd च, and stems in consonants.
- 368. But often a fem. in द्वे is used by the side of a masc. and neut. in आ; thus, द्विपर्श 'two-leaved', f. द्विपर्शी.
- 369. Very frequently the suffix क (attenuated into an element of indefinite value) is added to a pure possessive compound, to help the conversion of the compounded stem into an adjective; especially to fem. stems in द and क, and to stems in च्छ; and in general, where the final of the stem is less usual or manageable in adjective inflection. Thus, बद्धनदीक 'rich in rivers'; मृतभर्तृकारि, 'whose husband is dead', i. e. 'widow'; महायश्स् (nom. masc. and fem. 'शास) or महायश्रका
- 370. Sometimes the possessive-making suffix द्न is added to secondary adjective compounds, without effect upon the meaning; thus, गर्देभनादिन (= ॰नाद) 'having an ass's voice.'

- 371. A. Possessive compounds. The possessives are determinative compounds to which are given both an adjective inflection (as just shown), and also an adjective meaning of a kind best defined by adding 'having' to the meaning of the determinative. Thus, the dependent ইবছ্য n., 'beauty of a god', becomes the possessive ইছিৰাছ m. f. n., 'having the beauty of a god'; the descriptive ইছিৰাছ m., 'long arm', becomes the possessive ইছিৰাছ m. f. n., 'having long arms'."
- 372. Dependent compounds are, by comparison, not often thus turned into possessives. But possessively used descriptives are extremely frequent and various; and some kinds of combination which are rare in proper descriptives are very common as possessives.
- 373. An adjective as prior member takes the masculine stemform, even though referring to a feminine noun in the final member; thus, হুবের্য (from भार्या) 'possessing a beautiful wife'.
 - 374. As prior members are found:
- 1. Adjectives proper; thus, श्रान्यक्प of other form'. 2. Participles; thus, इतमातृक 'whose mother is slain'. 3. Numerals; thus, चतुमंद 'four-faced'; चिलोचन 'three-eyed'. 4. Nouns with quasi-adjectival value; thus, हिर्णहस्त 'gold-handed'. Especially common is the use of a noun as prior member to qualify the other appositionally, or by way of equivalence. These may well be called appositional possessives. Thus, कृष्णनामन 'having "Krsna" as name'; चीर्पह्म 'having men who are heroes'; चार्चस् 'using spies as eyes'; खाद्त 'having thee as messenger'. 5. Adverbial elements (especially inseparable prefixes);

^{*} This class of compounds is called by the natives bahuvrīhi; the name is an example of the class, meaning 'having much rice'.

— The possessive may generally, in accented texts, be distinguished from the original determinative by a difference of accent.

thus, अनन्त 'endless'; अपुच 'childless': सुपुच 'with excellent sons'; दुर्गान्ध 'ill-savored'. The associative prefix स (less often सह) is treated like an adjective element: thus. सरूप 'of like form'; सपुच or सहपुच 'with a son', or 'having one's son along with one'; सानुकुल (स + अनुकूल n.) 'favorable'. — 6. Ordinary verbal prefixes; thus. प्रयवस 'of wide fame'; बाङ्ग 'limbless'; निवंत 'powerless'; उन्मुख 'with uplifted face'. — 7. Ordinary adverbs; thus, इहचिन्त 'with mind directed hither'.

375. Certain words, very frequent in the compounds mentioned at § 374. 4, have in part won a peculiar application.

1. Thus with आदि 'beginning' (or the derivatives आदा or आदिक) are made compounds signifying the person or thing designated along with others — such a person or thing et cetera. Thus, देवा इन्हाद्यः 'the gods having Indra as first', i. e. 'the gods Indra, etc.' Often the qualifying noun is omitted; thus, अविपानादोनि 'food, drink, etc.' — 2. Words like पूर्व (पूर्वक) etc., are used in the same way, to denote accompaniment; chiefly adverbially. — 3. The noun अर्थ 'object', 'purpose', is used at the end of a compound, oftenest as a neut. subst. (acc. or instr. or loc.), to signify 'for the sake of', and the like; thus, द्मयन्त्रधं 'for Damayanti's sake'; भ्रायाधं 'for a bed'. (See below. § 379). — 4. अन्तर (as neut. subst.) often means 'other' in possessives; thus, देभान्तर n., 'another region' (lit. 'that which has a difference of region').

376. In appositional possessives, the final member, if it designate a part of the body, sometimes signifies the part to which belongs what is designated by the prior member: that on or in which it is. Thus मण्गिव 'with necklace on neck'. Such compounds are commonest with words meaning hand; thus, ग्रसिपाणि 'with sword in hand'; सगुद्धस्त 'with club in hand'.

377. The possessives are not always used with the simple value of qualifying adjective. Often they have a pregnant sense, and become the equivalents of dependent clauses; or the 'having' implied in them becomes about equivalent to our 'having' as a sign of past action. Thus, प्राप्तयोवन 'possessing attained adolescence', i. e. 'having reached adolescence'; अनिधगतशास्त्र 'with unstudied books', i. e. 'one who has neglected study'; गतप्राण 'whose breath is gone', i. e. 'lifeless'; आसतमृत्य 'to whom death is come near'.

- 378. B. Compounds with governed final member.
- 1. Participial compounds, exclusively Vedic.
- 2. Prepositional compounds. Thus may conveniently be called those compounds in which the prior member is a particle with true prepositional value, and the final member a noun governed by it. Thus, ञ्रतिराच 'lasting over night'; ञ्रतिमाच 'beyond measure', 'excessive'; ञ्रापिकार्ष 'next the ear'.
- 379. Adjective compounds as nouns and adverbs. Compound adjectives, like simple ones, are freely used substantively as abstracts and collectives, especially in the neuter, and less often in the feminine; and they are also much used adverbially, particularly in the acc. sing. neuter.
- 380. The substantively used possessive compounds having a numeral as prior member, with some of the strictly adjective compounds, are treated by the Hindus as a separate class, and called drigu*. Examples of such numeral abstracts and collectives are: चियुग n., 'the three ages'; चियोजन n., 'space of three leagues'. Feminines of like use occur in the later language; thus चिलोकी (by the side of one n..) 'the three worlds'.
 - 381. Those adverbially used accusatives of secondary adjective compounds which have an indeclinable or particle as prior member are considered by the Hindus a separate class of compounds, and called acyayībhāva*. 1. The prepositional compounds are especially frequent in this use; thus, प्रतिदोषम् 'at evening'; समन्म 'in sight'; अनुगङ्गम् (=गङ्गाम् अनु) 'along the Ganges'; उपगङ्गम् 'on the G.'; प्रतिवर्षम् 'every year'. — 2. A large class of acyayībhāvas is made up of words having a relative adverb, especially यथा, as prior member. Thus, यथावश्म, यथाकामम्, यथेक्स्म, 'as one chooses'. And, with other adverbs: यावज्ञीवम् 'as long as one lives'; यवजामम् 'whither one will'.

^{*} The name is a sample of the class, and means 'of two cows' (said to be used in the sense of 'worth two cows').

382. Occasionally quite anomalous compounds will be met with. For such, cf. Whitney, § 1314.

388. Class IV. A: nu-class. The present-stem is made by adding to the root the syllable न nu [ण nu], in strong forms नो nó [णो no]. The उ of the class-sign may be dropped before न and म of the 1st du. and 1st pl. endings, except when the root ends in a consonant; and the उ before a vowel-ending becomes न or उन्, according as it is preceded by one or by two consonants. Lesson XXXVI.

- 392. Verbs. Class IV. B. u-class. The few roots (only six) of this sub-class end already in ল except one, লু, of considerable irregularity and so add only ত as class-sign. The inflection is quite that of the nu-class, the ত being gunated in the strong forms, and dropped (optionally, but in fact nearly always) before ল and म of 1st dual and plural.
- 393. Thus तन्, 'stretch', makes तनीमि, तनीषि, etc.; 1st du. तन्तस् (or तनुवस्), 1st pl. तन्तस् (or तनुमस्); mid. तन्त्रे, तन्त्रहे, etc. all like a vowel-root of the nu-class.
- 394. The root lag. 'make', makes the strong stem करो, weak कुर; the class-sign उ is always dropped before व and म in 1st du. and 1st pl., and also before श् of the opt. active. Thus:

395. This root sometimes assumes (or retains from a more original condition) an initial स् after the prefix सम् "; thus, संस्त-रोति, संस्कर्ते, समस्कर्वन्

396. The adverbial prefixes आविस् and प्राद्स, 'forth to sight', 'in view'; तिरस 'through', 'out of sight'; प्रस 'in front, forward'; and the purely adverbial ग्रन्म 'enough, sufficient'. are often used with क, and with one or two other verbs, oftenest न्नस् 'be' and भू 'become'.

397. Any noun or adjective-stem is liable to be compounded with verbal forms or derivatives of the roots an and an, in the manner of a verbal prefix. If the final of the stem be an a-vowel or an i-vowel, it is changed to $\{\xi\}$; if an u-vowel, to $\{\xi\}$. Consonantal stems take the form which they have before consonantendings - of course with observance of the usual euphonic rules; but stems in अन change those letters to ई. Thus, खीकरोति 'he makes his own', 'appropriates'; भसीकरोति (भसान्) 'he changes to ashes', i. e. 'burns': स्तभीभवति 'becomes a post' (स्तभ); मुचीभवति 'becomes pure' (मुचि); साध्वरोति 'makes holy'.

398. The suffixes at (f.) and at (n.) are very extensively used to form abstract nouns, denoting 'the quality of being so-

- 402. The roots ending in ज shorten that vowel before the class sign; thus, पू, पुनाति, पुनीते. The root ग्रह is weakened to गृह; thus, गृह्णाति
- 403. A few roots which have a nasal in some forms outside the present-system, lose it in the present; thus, ग्रष् or ग्रन्थ, ग्रथूर्गात; बन्ध, वधाति; स्तम् or स्तम्, स्तमाति. Similarly, ज्ञा makes जानाति

Lesson XXXIX.

414. Verbs. Root-class, cont'd. Roots ending in consonants. The endings of the 2nd and 3rd sing, impf. act. are generally dropped, and the resulting root-final treated according to the usual rules for finals.* Cf. §§ 239, 242. But a root ending in a dental mute sometimes drops this final mute instead of the added \mathbf{H} in the second person; and, on the other hand, a root or stem ending in \mathbf{H} sometimes drops this \mathbf{H} instead of the added \mathbf{H} in the third person: in either case establishing the ordinary relation of \mathbf{H} and \mathbf{H} in the second and third persons.

415. Roots in च् and ज substitute क् for those letters before त, य and स् (which then becomes ष्); and ग् before ध्. Thus, वच् 'speak': विचा, विज्ञा, विज्ञा (only these three forms used).

416. Root 1विद 'know, (act. only):

Indicative. Imperfect.

- विद्या विद्यस् विद्यस् ग्रविद्म ग्रविद्यः
 वित्सं वित्यस् वित्यं ग्रविस् or ग्रवित् ग्रवित्तःम् ग्रवित्तः

Imv.: वेदानि, विद्धि, वेत्तुः वेदाव, वित्तम्, वित्ताम् ; वेदाम, वित्ता, विद्नु, — Opt.: विद्याम्, etc.

^{*} In the inflection of roots with final consonant, of this class and the reduplicating and nasal classes, euphonic rules find very frequent application. The student is therefore advised at this point to read carefully the chief rules of euphonic change in Whitney's Grammar, §§ 139—232 (the two larger sizes of print).

417. This root also makes a perfect without reduplication (but otherwise regular) which has always the value of a present. The forms of the indic. are:

Sing. 1. वेद, 2. वेत्य, 3. वेद; du. 1. विद, 2. विद्युस, 3. विद्तुस; pl. 1. विद्य, 2. विद्रुष, 5. विद्रुष, The participle is विद्रांस, f. विद्रुषी (cf. § 268).

418. The root ग्रह्, 'eat' (act.), inserts ग्र before the endings of the 2nd and 3rd sing. impf.; thus, ग्राहस्. ग्राहत्.

419. The root हन्, 'kill' (act.), is treated somewhat as are noun-stems in ग्रन in declension (§ 283). Thus:

Indicative. Imperfect.

- 1. हिन्स हन्त्रस् ऋहनम् ऋहन्व ऋहन्त्र
- 2. हंसि हथस् हथ ग्रहन् ग्रहतम् ग्रहत
- 3. हिन्त हतस् घ्रन्ति ग्रहन् ग्रहताम् ग्रघन्

Imv.: हनानि, जहि^{*}, हन्तुः हनान, हतम्, हताम्; हनाम, हत, भून्तु. — Opt.: हन्याम् etc. — Part.: भन्त्, f. भूती.

420. Roots in म्, ष्, ज्, substitute क् before स् (which then becomes ष्), ष् before त् and ष् (which become द् and द), and इ before ष् (which becomes ह). Thus, दिष् 'hate' (act. and mid.):

Indicative Act.

Imperfect Act.

- 1. देषिम दिष्यस् दिष्मस् ग्रदेषम् ग्रदिष्य ग्रदिष्म
- 2. देवि दिष्ठस् दिष्ठः ग्रदिष्टम् ग्रदिष्ट
- 3. द्वेष्टि द्विष्टस् द्विषन्ति ऋदेट् ऋदिष्टाम् ऋदिषन्

Imv. Act.: देषाणि, दिङ्ढि, देष्टु; देषाव etc.

421. चत्त्, 'see' (mid.): Pres. Ind.: चत्ते, चत्ते, चष्टे; चत्त्वहे, चत्त्वाचे, चत्ताते; चत्त्वहे, चत्त्वते. — Impf.: अचित्तं, अच्छास्, अच्छः अचत्त्वहि, अच्चायाम्, अच्चाताम्; अच्चतिहे, अच्चत्तः, अच्चतः

^{*} Anomalous dissimilation.

422. 1. ई.म्, 'rule' (mid.), inserts इ before endings beginning with स and ध; thus, 2nd sing. देशिये. — 2. वम्, 'wish' (act.), is in weak forms contracted to उम्; thus, 3rd. pl. उश्कात.

423. मृज, 'rub', 'clean' (act.), has vrddhi in the strong forms, and optionally also in weak forms when the endings begin with a vowel. In the treatment of the root-final this verb follows the roots in घ्. Thus, ind. 3rd sing. मार्छ, du. मृष्टम्, pl. मृजन्ति or मार्जन्ति.

424. Verbs. Root-class, cont'd. ग्रास् 'sit' (mid.): Indic. ग्रासे, ग्रासेन (unique).

425. The root शास, 'command' (act.), substitutes in the weak forms with consonant-endings the weakened stem शिष्; thus, indic. sing. शास्त्र etc.; du. शिष्ट्यस् etc.; but 3rd pl. शास्ति. Impf.: ऋशासम्, अशास्, अशास्त्र अशास्त्र. Imv. 2nd sing. शास्त्र; 3rd pl. शास्त्.

426. The extremely common root 1 द्वास्, 'be' (act.), loses its vowel in weak forms, except when protected by the augment. The 2nd sing. imv. is एधि; in the 2nd sing. indic. one स् is omitted; in the 2nd and 3rd sing. impf. है is inserted before the ending. Thus:

Indicative.				Imperfect.
1.	ऋसि	खस्	स्रास्	त्रासम्	ग्राख	त्रास

^{*} Or ग्राध्ने. So ग्राड्म or ग्राध्नम् (imv., impf.).

Lesson XLI.

- 430. Verbs. Reduplicating Class. This class forms the presentstem by prefixing a reduplication to the root.*
 - 431. The rules governing the reduplication are as follows:
- 1. The consonant of the reduplicating syllable is in general the first consonant of the root; thus, दा, द्रा. But, (a) a non-aspirate is substituted for an aspirate; and (b) a palatal for a guttural or ह; thus, धा, दधा; खिद्, चिखिद्; ही, जिही; (e) if the root begin with a sibilant followed by a non-nasal mute, the latter is repeated (with observance of a), not the sibilant; thus, स्था, तस्था

^{*} Only a small proportion of the roots of this class retain the accent on the root-syllable in the strong forms. In the great majority, the accent is on the reduplication, both in the strong forms and in those weak forms whose endings begin with vowels.

- 2. A long vowel is shortened in the reduplicating syllable; and ऋ is replaced by इ; thus, ददा and द्धा above; भी, विभी; भ. विभृ
- 432. The present-stem gunates the root-vowel in the strong forms; thus, विभी, strong विभे; विभृ, strong विभर्.
- 433. The verbs of this class lose the ল from the endings of the 3rd pl. in the active as well as in the middle; and in the 3d pl. impf. act. always take ওয়া, before which a final radical vowel has guna; thus, স্থাবিশহয়.

434. Root 4, 'bear, carry'. For 2nd and 3rd sing. impf. act., cf. §§ 122, 414.

436. The root 177 is inflected in precisely the same way, but with change everywhere of u to z, except where u belongs to the ending.

437. The root 1हा, 'quit, abandon' (act.), drops the आ in weak forms where the ending begins with a vowel, and in the opt.; thus, indic. 3rd sing. जहाति, pl. जहति; impf. 3rd. sing. ग्रजहात्, pl. ग्रज़ुम् ; opt. जह्यात्. The 2nd sing. imv. is जहीहि or जहिहिः In the other weak forms before consonant-endings the stem is either जही or जहि; thus, जहीमस or जहिमस्.

438. 1मा, 'measure' (mid.), and 2हा, 'move, go' (mid.), form

^{*} In combination with त् or घ् of an ending, the घ् of दध् does not give 3, but follows the general rule of aspirate and of surd and sonant combination; and the lost aspiration is thrown back upon the initial of the root.

मिमी and जिही before consonant-endings, मिम् and जिह before vowel-endings; thus, 3rd persons indic. मिमीते, सिमाते. सिमते.

439. $\overline{\pi}$ 'pour, sacrifice' (act. and mid.), makes the 2nd sing. imv. जुड़िधः; 3rd persons impf. अजुहोत्, अजुड़ताम्, अजुहवस्.

440. 1. भी, 'fear' (act.), may shorten its vowel in weak forms; thus, विभोमस् or विभिमस्, विभोचात् or विभिचात् -2. ही, 'be ashamed' (act.), changes its weak stem जिही to जिहिए before vowel-endings; thus, indic. 3rd persons जिहित, जिहीतस, जि-हियतिः

Lesson XLIII.

- 447. Verbs. Perfect-System. In the later language the perfect-system comprises only an indicative mode and a participle, each both active and middle. Its formation is essentially alike in all verbs; its characteristics are: 1. reduplication; 2. distinction of strong and weak forms; 3. endings in some respects peculiar; 4. the frequent use of the union-vowel i.
- 448. Reduplication. 1. Initial consonants are reduplicated according to the rules given in Less. XLI for the reduplicated present-stem.
- 2. Medial and final vowels, short and long, are represented by the corresponding short vowel, diphthongs by their second element; but च्छ (or अर्) is represented always by आ, never by द् as in the reduplicated present-stem. Thus, आम, चक्रम; स्था, तस्था; सिच्-सिषच्; सेव्, सिषेव्; गा, जगा; क्र चकृ
- 3. Initial ম্ম, followed by a single consonant, becomes স্মা (through স্ম-স্কা); thus, সমূহ, স্মাহ
 - 4. Initial द and 3 follow the same analogy; but in the strong forms, where the root-vowel is gunated, the reduplicating vowel is protected from combination by the insertion of य or व; thus, इष, strong perfect-stem इयेष् (i-y-eṣ) weak ईष् (i. e. i-is); उच्, strong उवीच् (u-v oc), weak ऊच् (u-uc).

- 5. Roots beginning with vowels long by nature or position do not in general make the ordinary perfect-system, but use instead a periphrastic formation (see below). But 知叹 is an exception, making the constant perfect-stem 别叹; and a few roots with initial 到 or 親 show the anomalous reduplication 别问 in the perfect.*
- 449. Strong and weak forms. In the three persons sing, act, the root-syllable is accented, and exhibits usually a stronger form. As regards the strengthening:
- 1. In roots with medial vowels long by nature or position, and in those with initial n, the difference of strong and weak forms does not appear, except in accented texts.
- 2. Medial and initial vowels are gunated, if possible, in the strong forms; thus, भिद्, w. विभिद्ध, s. विभेद; इष, w. ईष, s. इयेष्; उच्, w. ऊच, s. उवोच (§ 448, 4).
- 3. Medial म्र before a single final consonant is vriddhied in the 3rd pers., and optionally in the 1st; thus, from पच्, in 1st sing. either पपच् or पपाच्, in 2nd पपच्, in 3rd पपाच्.
- 4. A final vowel takes either guna or vrddhi in the 1st person, guna in the 2nd, vrddhi in the 3rd; thus, from नी, in 1st निने or निने, 2nd निने, 3rd निने.
- 450. The root भू makes, irregularly, the perfect-stem व्रभू, and adds व before a vowel-ending.
 - 451. Some roots, instead of strengthening the vowel in the strong forms, weaken it in the weak forms; some few even do both. See below.

^{*} The grammarians prescribe (doubtless falsely) this reduplication for all verbs beginning with π or π followed by more than one consonant.

452. Personal Endings. The perfect-endings are these:

Active.			Middle.
1.	a	$v\acute{a}$	md	ė	$v\'ahe$	má h e
2	tha	\acute{a} thus	\dot{a}	sė	άthe	$dhv\acute{e}$
3.	a	átus	ús	ė	ā́te	$r \acute{e}$

But roots ending in \bar{a} take $\bar{a}u$ in 1st and 3rd sing. act.; thus, स्था. तस्थी

- 453. Union-vowel. The endings beginning with consonants are in classical Sanskrit usually joined to the base by the union-vowel इ. The most important rules for the use of इ are as follows:
 - 1. The tof 3rd pl. mid. always has to before it.
- 2. The other endings beginning with consonants, except 取, take it in nearly all verbs. But it is rejected throughout (except from て) by eight verbs: viz. 1兩 'make', 된 'bear', 된 'go', 2頁 'choose', 頁 'run', 된 'hear', 된 'praise', 된 'flow'.
- For its use or omission in 2nd sing. act. the rules are too complicated to be given here.
- 454. With the union-vowel द् a final radical द् or दे is not combined into दे, but becomes य or (if more than one consonant precede) द्य; thus, from नी, निन्यित ni-ny-i-va.

Examples of inflection. A. Roots in final vowels.

- 455. I. Roots in इ or ई. The ए and ए of gunated and vriddhied vowels become आय and आय before the vowel beginning an ending. See also § 454.
- Thus, 1. नो: Act.: Sing. 1. निनय or निनाय, 2. निनयिथ or निनेश, 3. निनाय; du. 1. निन्यत, 2. निन्यश्रम, 3. निन्यतुम्; pl. 1. निन्यम्, 2. निन्य, 3. निन्यम्, Mid.: Sing. 1. निन्ये, 2. निन्यिषे, 3. निन्ये;

- 456. II. Roots in 3 or 5 follow the model of the last-mentioned. Thus, स्तु: Act.: Sing. 1. तृष्टव or तृष्टाव, 2. तृष्टोष (not तृष्टविष see § 453, 2), 3. तृष्टाव; du. 1. तृष्टुव, 2. तृष्टुवयुस्, 3. तृष्टुवतुस् — जूः Act.: du. लुलुविव etc.

457. H is irregular in the perfect. (Cf. § 450):

 बभूविष वभूवधुस वभूव बभूविषे बभुवाधे बभूविधे
- वभ्वतुस बभूवस बभूवे बभूवाते बभ्विरे
 - 458. III. Roots in স্থা. 1. 1জ (see § 453, 2):
- चकुवहे चकुमहे चकुम चक्री 1. चकर, चकार चकुव
- चक्षे चक्राथे चक्छे चक्र्य चक्रथस् चक्र
- चक्री चक्राते चिक्रिरे चकार चक्रतुस् चक्रुस्

So also भ, स्, 2व 'choose'. 2. The other roots in ऋ make the first persons thus: from धु, द्धर् or द्धार, द्ध्रिन, द्ध्रिन; द्ध्रे, दधिवहै, दधिमहै.

- 459. If the final \(\frac{1}{20} \) be preceded by more than one consonant, the formation is as follows: स्मृ, 1. ससार or ससार, 2. ससार्थ, 3. ससार; du. ससार्व, ससार्थ्स, etc. — the ऋ being gunated.
- 460. IV. Roots in স্থা (including those written by the natives with ए or ए or आ). These take आ in 1st and 3rd sing. act.; and the आ is lost before vowel-endings and द. 1. 1धाः
- दिधिम दिधवहें दिधमहे 1. दधी दिधिव दधे
- दिधिषे दधाये 2. द्धाय, द्धिय दधयुस् दघ
- 3. दधी द्धतुस् द्धुस् दधे दधाते
 - 2. घा, द्वा, and similar roots, make their weak forms from the simpler root-forms पी, ह etc.; and द्वा makes its strong forms also from ह; thus, ज्हब or जहाब etc.

B. Roots in final consonants.

461. I. With medial vowel capable of guna.

1. भिद्: Act: Sing. 1. विभेद, 2. विभेदिश, 3. विभेद; du. विभि-दिव etc.; pl. विभिद्मि etc. Mid.: विभिद् etc. 2. So from तुद्: तुतोद etc.; 3. from हुण्: 1. ददर्श, 2. दद्शिथ or दद्छ, 3. ददर्श; du. दट्शिव etc.

462. II. With initial vowel capable of guna.

1. द्षः Sing. 1. द्येष, 2. द्येषिथ, 3. द्येष; du. 1. द्विव, 2. द्षथ्म, 3. द्ष्पुस, 3. द्ष्पुस, pl. 1. द्षिम, 2. द्ष्प, 3. द्षुस, 2. उचः उवोच etc. 3. The root द्, 'go', also follows this rule, forming द्याय etc., 3rd. pl. द्युस, 4. च्यच makes (see § 448, 5) ग्रानर्च, ग्रानर्चिय etc.

463. III. With initial ग्र.

ग्रस, ग्रास etc.; ग्रद्, ग्राद etc. But ग्रम् (originally ग्रंम्) makes ग्रानंश etc. (§ 448, 5).

464. IV. With medial अ.

1. क्रम: Act.: sing. 1. चक्रम or चक्रास, 2. चक्रमिथ, 3. चक्रास; du. चक्रसिव etc. Mid.: चक्रमे etc.

Thus all such roots beginning with more than one consonant, or with an aspirate, a guttural mute, or ह.

465. 2. Roots in general having medial आ before a single final consonant, and beginning also with a single consonant which is repeated unchanged in the reduplication — i. e. not an aspirate, a guttural, or ह — contract with the reduplication into one syllable, with u as its vowel, in the weak forms; and this is allowed also in 2nd sing. act. when the union-vowel इ is taken.* Thus, पच, s. पपच् and पपाच, w. पेच:

^{*} Several roots not having the form here defined are said to undergo the same contraction, most of them optionally.

पेचिवहे पेचिम पेचे पेचिमहे पेचिव पपच, पपाच पेचाथे पेचिषे पपक्थ, पेचिथ पेचयुस् पेचुस् पेचे पेचाते पेचिरे पेचतस् पपाच

466. 3. Certain roots beginning with व va (also one with य ya) and ending in one consonant, reduplicate with the syllable उ (the one root just mentioned, with इ), and abbreviate the व (य) of the root to उ (इ) in weak forms. They are treated like roots with initial उ (इ: § 463) but retain the full root form in the strong persons. These roots are वच्, वद, वप, वम्, वस 'dwell', and वह; also यज्. Thus, वच्: Act. sing. 1. उवच or उवाच, 2. उवक्ष्य or उवचिष, 3. उवाच; du. जाचिव (u-uc-i-va) etc. Mid. जाचे etc. — यज्: Act. sing. 1. इयज or इयाज, 2. इयष or इयाजप, 3. इयाज; du. इजिव etc. Mid. ईजिव etc.

467. 4. Several roots which have medial म्र between single consonants, but cannot follow the rule of § 465, drop out the म्र from the weak forms. These roots are, in the classical language, खन्, गम्, घस्, हन्; and also जन्, which might be expected to follow § 465. They form the weak stems चख्, जग्म, जच्, जघ्; and जज्ञ. Thus, चखन or चखान etc., चिख्नव etc. हन् makes its strong stem जघन् and जघान.

468. 5. The roots खाध्, खाप, and one or two others, reduplicate from the semivowel, and contract य and व to इ and उ in weak forms. Thus, strong सुख्य or सुखाए, weak सुष्

469. 1. The root ग्रह, 'speak', is found only in this tense, and only in the following forms: sing. 2. ग्रात्य, 3. ग्राह; du. 2. ग्राह्युस, 3. ग्राहतुस; pl. 3. ग्राइस. These forms have only the value of the present.—2. The root 1 विद, 'know', makes a perfect without reduplication, but otherwise regular, which has only present-value; see § 417. 2 विद, 'find', forms the regular विवेद.

470. The roots चि, चित्, जि, and हि, form as perfect-stems चित्रि, चितित्, जिगि, and जिघि

- 471. Perfect participle. 1. Active. The ending of the pf. part. active is वांस (mid. वत्, w. उष्), which is added to the weak perfect-stem.* When this is monosyllabic the union-vowel इ is inserted (but not in the weakest cases, before उष्). Thus, a. from इष्, strong stem of part. देखिवांस, mid. देखिवत, w. देषुष; from पच, पेचिवांस, पेचिवत, पेचुष; from वच, ऊचिवांस, ऊचिवत, ऊचुष; from दा, ददिवांस, ददिवत, ददुष. But, from नो, निनोवांस, निनीवत, निन्युष; from स्तु, तुष्टुवांस, तुष्टुवत, तुष्टुवुष; from भिद्र, विभिद्रांस, विभिद्रांस, विभिद्रांस, विभिद्रांस, कांग्निवांस, mid. जिम्मवत् or जगन्वत, weakest only जगम्ब. Similarly, from इन, जिच्चांस or जगन्वांस, कांग्निवत् or जघन्वत्, जञ्जूष्. c. विद्, 'know', makes विद्रांस etc.; 2विद्, 'find', विविद्रांस etc.
- 2. Middle. The pf. part. middle is made with the suffix त्रान, which is added to the weak stem as this appears in the middle voice; thus, बुध, बुबुधान; धा, द्धान; कृ, चक्राण; नी, निन्यान; तन्, तेनान.

Periphrastic Perfect.

- 472. Most roots beginning with a vowel long by nature or position adopt a periphrastic formation in the perfect tense; the same is also taken by the secondary conjugations, and optionally by a few primary roots not falling in the above category. It is made as follows:
- 473. To the accusative of a derivative noun-stem in স্থা, made from the present-stem which is the general basis of each conjugation, are added, for the active, the perfect active forms of কু or স্থান্ন (or, very rarely, of মূ); for the middle, only the perfect middle forms of कु. Thus, from चोर्प्रूंचिति, pf. चोरयामास or चोरयांचकार; from ईच्, ईचांचके.

^{*} Mechanically, the weakest participle-stem is identical with the 3rd pl. act. (of course, 頁 instead of 刊).

474. Force of the Perfect. In classical Sanskrit the perfect coincides in meaning with the imperfect, as a tense of narration, but is less often met with.

Lesson XLIV.

- 475. Verbs. Future-System (and Conditional). The verb has two futures: I. The simple, or s-future, which is by far the older, and much more common, than the other; and II. the periphrastic future.
- 476. I. Simple Future. This tense contains an indicative mode and a participle, active and middle. It may be made from all verbs. The tense-sign is the syllable स्थ, added to the root either directly, or by the union-vowel द (in the latter case becoming द्या). The root has the guna-strengthening when possible; and some roots with medial स्थ gunate with द instead of स्र. The inflection is precisely like that of the present indicative of a verb of the a-conjugation; thus, from মু. মৰিয়েনি, তনৈ
- 477. When द is not taken, final radical consonants suffer the same changes before स्व as before स् in the inflection of the root-class or reduplicating or nasal class. Thus, from दुह, धोन्यति; स्च, मोन्यति; भिद्, भेत्यति; रुध, रोत्यति; नम्, नंस्वति; लिह, लेन्यति; दिष्, देन्यति; दृण्, द्रन्यति. The root वस् 'dwell', makes वत्यति.
- 478. 1. Most roots ending in vowels reject द्; thus, दा, दा-स्वित; गा, गास्वित; जि, जीव्यति; यु, श्रोधिति. 2. But all roots in च्य take द्; thus, कु, कर्षिवित; तृ, तर्षिवित; and also the roots श्री (श्यिवित) and भू (भविष्यति). 3. यह makes ग्रहीष्विति.

- 479. In general, the verbs which take ξ in the infinitive and periphrastic future (see below), take it also in this tense. But the accordance is far from complete; and these parts should be learned, as a matter of usage, for any given verb.
- 480. Stems of causative inflection, and denominatives in মুম্ব, make their future-stems in ম্বিছা; thus, লুবু, নীৰ্মিছানি
- 481. Participle. The participles, act. and mid., are made from the future-stem precisely as from the present-stem; thus, दा, दा- खन्त् (f. ॰स्तो), दास्मान; कृ, करिष्यन्त्, करिष्यमान. Cf. §§ 260, 262.
- 482. Conditional. A tense called the conditional (indic. only) is made from the stem of the simple future precisely as the imperfect is made from the present-stem, and similarly inflected. Thus, ग्रहास्म, ग्रहार्थम; ग्रहार्थ, ग्रहार्थ. It is of extremely rare occurrence.
- 483. II. Periphrastic Future. This tense, which is allowed to be made from all verbs, contains a single indicative tense, active,* It is formed by the nomen agentis in \(\frac{1}{2}\), having the value of a future active participle, to the nom. sing. of which (AI) are added, in the 1st and 2nd persons of all numbers, the corresponding inflected forms of the pres. of 1 \(\frac{1}{2}\), In the 3rd persons the nomen agentis is used alone, in the proper number, without the auxiliary.
- 484. The root has in most cases the same form before the suffix तृ which it takes before the तुम् of the infinitive. Thus, गातृ; जि, जेतृ; स्तु, स्तोतृ; भू, भवितृ; कृ, कर्तृ; कथय, कथयितृ.
 - 485. The inflection is then as follows:

^{*} The Hindus also prescribe a middle formation; it has, how-, ever, practically no existence.

- 1. कर्तासि कर्तास्वस् कर्तास्मस्
- 2. कर्तासि कर्तास्वस् कर्तास्व
- वर्ता वर्तारी वर्तारस्

Aorist-System.

486. The aorist comprises three quite distinct formations, each with certain sub-varieties; but all are bound together into one complex system by certain correspondences of form and meaning. In classical Sanskrit aorists are comparatively rare. Their value is quite that of impf. or pf. as tenses of narration. But they are used also (though not nearly so often as the prohibitive opt.) with the particle HI, in prohibitions, the augment being then omitted; thus, HI ZI: 'do not give'; HI HAI: 'do not fear'. With this exception the aorist always has the augment in classical Sanskrit. The tense comprises, in the later language, only an indicative mode.* The main varieties of aorist are three: I. Simple Aorist; II. Reduplicated Aorist; III. Sibilant Aorist.

487. I. Simple aorist. (1) Root aorist. This aorist is precisely like an imperfect of the root-class. It is limited to the active voice of a few roots in आ, and of H. E. g.

	1दा			भू
 ग्रहाम् 	ग्रदाव	ग्रदाम	ग्रभूवम्	ऋभूव	अभूम
 ऋदास् 	त्रदातम्	त्रदात	ऋभूस्	ग्रभू तम्	ऋभूत
3. ग्रदात्	त्रदाताम्	त्रदुस्	ग्रभू त्	त्रभूताम्	ऋभूवन्
Like दाः धा, ऋधात्; स्था, ऋस्थात्; पा, ऋपात्; गा 'go', ख-गात.

488. (2) The α-aorist. This is like an imperfect of the α-class, active and middle. Thus, from सिच्, 1st persons ग्रसिचम, ग्रसिचाव, ग्रसिचाम; ग्रसिच। ग्रसिच। ग्रसिच। ग्रसिच। ग्रसिच। ग्रसिच। In general the root assumes a weak form; but three or four roots in final ऋ take guna. Thus, आप, आपत; गम, अगमत; अंग्, अअग्रत; मुच्, अनुचत; सद्, असदत; शक्, अश्रकत; संस्, अस्मत् — Irregular: ख्या, अख्यत; हा, अहत; आस, अश्रकत; शास्, अश्रिषत; १ अस् 'throw', आस्थत (anomalous). वच् makes अवीचत्, and पत्, अपन्त्, which, with one or two others, were doubtless originally reduplicated aorists.

^{*} The precative is strictly a peculiar aor. optative; but it is so rare that its formation need not be explained here.

- 489. II. Reduplicated Aorist (3). This agrist differs from all others in that it has come to be attached nearly always to the derivative (caus., etc.) conjugation in 現現, as its agrist. The connection is not formal, as the agrist is not made from the stem in 現現, but from the root. Its characteristic is a reduplication, of quite peculiar character.
- 490. The reduplicated agrist is very unusual in classical Sanskrit, and it will be sufficient for the present to give an example or two of its formation. Thus, जन makes স্থাজীজনন; स্দুশ্, স্থাদিस্দুম্ন; স্থানিষ্ঠিদন্. The inflection is the usual one of imperfects of the α-conjugation.
- 491. III. Sibilant Aorist, of four varieties. (4) The s-aorist. The tense-stem is made by adding स to the augmented root, which usually has its vowel strengthened. E. g. नी: Act.: sing. 1. अनेषम्, 2. अनेषास्, 3. अनेषात्; du. 1. अनेष्य, 2. अनेष्यम्, 3. अनेष्यम् etc.
- 492. (5) The is-aorist. The tense-stem is made by adding स् by means of an inserted इ. The root is generally strengthened. E. g. पू 'purify': Act.: sing. 1. ऋपाविषम, 2. ऋपावीस, 3. ऋपावीत; du. 1. ऋपाविष्म, 2. ऋपाविष्म, 3. ॰ष्टाम; pl. 1. ॰विष्म, 2. ॰विष्ट, 3. विष्म, Mid. sing. 1. ऋपाविष्ठि, 2. ऋपाविष्टास, 3. ऋ-

- पाविष्ट; du. 1. °विष्वहि, 2. °विषाधाम, 3. °ताम; pl. 1. °विपाहि, 2. °विहुम, 3. °विषत. This is the only agrist of which forms are made in the secondary and denominative conjugations (but for causatives and denominatives in अथ, cf. § 489).
- 493. (6) The sis-aorist is active only, the corresponding middle being of the s-form. An example will suffix here. या: sing. 1. ग्र-यासियम् etc., quite like the inflection of the is-aorist.
- 494. (7) The sα-aorist. दिशः Act. sing. I. श्रद्सिम्, 2. °चस्, 3. °चत्; and so on, like an impf. of the α-conjugation. But in the mid. the grammarians prescribe the 1st. sing. श्रदिचि, and 2nd and 3rd du. श्रदिचाथाम् and °ताम्.
- 495. Aorist Passive. Generally the middle forms of aorists 4, 5, or 7, are used also for the passive. Roots which do not ordinarily take aorists of these forms, may make them like 4 or 5 especially for the passive.
- 496. But a 3rd pers. sing., of peculiar formation, has become a recognized part of the passive conjugation. It is formed by adding ξ to the root, which takes also the augment, and is usually strengthened, in some cases by guṇa, in others by vrddhi. After final ग्रा is added च्. Thus, नी, ग्रनाचि; ग्रु, ग्रग्रावि; क्रु, ग्रनाचि; च्रु, ग्रनाचि; च्रु, ग्रनाचि; च्रु, ग्रनाचि;

Lesson XLV.

Derivative or Secondary Conjugations.

497. Secondary conjugations are those in which a whole system of forms, more or less complete, is made from a derivative conjugation-stem, this whole system being usually connected with a certain definite modification of the original radical sense. These conjugations are: I. Passive. II. Intensive. III. Desiderative. IV. Causative. V. Denominative.

- 498. I. Passive. The present-system of the passive has been described; as also the peculiar 3rd pers. sing. used as aor. pass., the past pass. participle in त or न, and the fut. pass. participles or gerundives. In all other parts of the verb middle forms are used, if necessary, with passive meaning.
- 499. II. Intensive. The intensive conjugation signifies the intensification or the repetition of the action expressed by the primary conjugation of a root. Forms outside the present-system are too rare to need notice here; indeed, even within that system they are by no means common in the later language. Intensives fall into two classes.
- 500. 1. The verbs of the first class (only act.) form their intensive-stem by reduplication, and the reduplicating syllable is strengthened. a. Radical म and म are reduplicated with मा, द and द with ए, उ and ज with मा; thus, वावद, दाधु, नेनी, मोमुन् b. Sometimes the reduplicating syllable has a final consonant, taken from the end of the root; thus, चर्र, मर्मुज्. c. Sometimes the reduplication is dissyllabic, an i-vowel being inserted after the final consonant of the reduplicating syllable; thus, चरीवृत.—
 The model of inflection is the present-system of the reduplicating-class, but deviations are not rare; in particular, an द is sometimes inserted between stem and ending.
- 501. 2. From the intensive-stem as just described may be formed another, formally identical with a passive-stem, by the suffix च. It takes middle inflection, but has no passive value, being used precisely as is the intensive just mentioned. Thus, मृज्, समृज्यते
- 502. A few intensives, having lost their value as such, come to be used as presents, and are treated by the native grammarians as simple roots. Thus जागृ, really intensive of गृ 'wake', is assigned to the root-class: pres. जागिसे etc., du. जागृवस etc.; impf. 1. अजागर्स, 2. अजागर्, 3. अजागर्; du. अजाग्व etc. So also ट्रिंग, intens. of ट्रा 'run', used as a present with the sense 'be poor'. निज् 'wash', and some others, use the intensive present-system in the same way, and are assigned to the reduplicating class; thus, 3rd sing. निनित्त, 3rd pl. निनिज्ञति.

Intensive forms outside the present-system are very rare.

- 503. III. Desiderative. By this conjugation is denoted a desire for the action or condition denoted by the simple root; thus, पिवासि 'I drink', desid. पिपासास 'I wish to drink'.
- 504. To form the desiderative-stem the root is reduplicated, and adds स, sometimes इष. The consonant of the reduplication is determined by the usual rules; the vowel of reduplication is इ if the root has an a-vowel, an i-vowel, or च्छ, and उ if the root has an u-vowel. Thus, या, यियासित; नी, निनीषित; भू, बुभूषित; क्, चिकोषित; भिद्र, विभित्सित; तिज्, तितिच्ते.
- 505. A number of roots form an abbreviated desiderativestem; thus, त्राप, द्रेप्सति; दा, दित्सति
- 506. The conjugation in the present-system is like that of other a-stems. Outside of that desiderative forms are quite infrequent. The perfect is the periphrastic. The aorist is of the is-form; thus, इ. प्राप्ता च्याति च्छ. The futures are made with the auxiliary vowel द; thus, देप्पात, देप्पितासि. The verbal nouns are made with द in all forms where that vowel is ever taken. A passive may be made; thus, देप्सत 'it is desired to be obtained'; part. देप्पित.
- 507. IV. Causative. 1. The present-system of the causative has been treated of already. 2. The perfect is the periphrastic, the derivative noun in आ being formed from the causative-stem; thus, धार्यां चकार. 3. The agrist is the reduplicated, made in general directly from the root, and formally unconnected with the causative-stem; thus, धृ, अदीधरम, अव्भवम. In a few instances, where the root has assumed a peculiar form before the causative-sign, the reduplicated agrist is made from this form, not from the simple root; thus, स्था, स्थापयित, श्रतिष्ठिपत. 4. Both futures are made from the causative-stem, the auxiliary द replacing the final ग्र; thus, धार्यियति, धार्यितास्मि. 5. The verbal nouns and adjectives are in part formed from the causative-stem in the same manner as the futures, in part from the causatively strengthened root-form; thus, pass. part. श्रावित; fut. pass. part. (gerundive) तर्पयितय, स्थाय; inf. जोषियतुम; gerund साद्यत्वा, ॰स्थाय, ॰ग-मद्य (§ 310).

- 508. Causative passive and desiderative. These may be made from the causative-stem as follows. 1. The passive-stem is formed by adding the usual passive sign য to the causatively strengthened root, the syllables স্বয় being omitted; thus, ঘাইনি. 2. The desiderative-stem is made by reduplication and addition of the syllables হ্য, of which the হ replaces the final স্ব of the causative-stem; thus, ভিয়াব্যাদিন, বিশাব্যাদিন. This is a rare formation.
- 509. V. Denominative. A denominative conjugation is one that has as basis a noun-stem. In general, the base is made from the noun-stem by means of the conjugation-sign य, which has the accent. Intermediate between the denominative and causative conjugations stands a class of verbs plainly denominative in origin but having the causative accent. Thus, from मन्त्र, मन्त्रयते mantrayate; from कीर्ति, कीर्तयति kīrtāyati. See § 76.
- 510. The denominative meaning is of the greatest variety; e. g. 'be like', 'act as', 'regard or treat as', 'make into', 'desire, crave' that which is signified by the noun-stem. Examples: from तपस् 'penance, asceticism', तपस्रति 'practise ascetism'; from नमस्, नमस्रति 'honor'; कृष्णायते 'blacken'; ऋषायति 'seek horses'; गोपायति 'play the herdsman, protect'; वसूयति 'desire wealth'; भिषज्यति 'play the physician, cure'; पुत्रका-स्यति 'desire a son', from the poss. cpd पुत्रकाम 'desiring a son'

Hindu Names of Letters.

The Hindus call the different sounds, and the characters representing them, by the word $k\ddot{a}ra$ ('maker') added to the sound of the letter, if a vowel, or to the letter followed by a, if a consonant. Thus, a (both sound and character) is called $ak\ddot{a}ra$; \ddot{u} , $\ddot{u}k\ddot{a}ra$; k, $kak\ddot{a}ra$; and so on. But sometimes $k\ddot{a}ra$ is omitted, and a, \ddot{u} , ka, etc., are used alone. The r, however, is never called $ra-k\ddot{a}ra$, but only ra or repha ('snarl'). The $anusv\ddot{a}ra$ and visarga are called by these names alone.

Modern Hindu Accentuation of Sanskrit.

In the pronunciation of Sanskrit almost all Brāhmans employ, with insignificant variations, an ictus-accent, which is quite different from the older musical accent (svara) described in Indian and European grammars, and employed nowadays exclusively in the recitation of the Veda. The older system, moreover, as marked in the Vedic texts, has been subjected to very considerable modifications by the Hindus in the traditional recitations of the Vedic schools.

The modern ictus-accent is weaker than that of English. The more important rules governing its use are as follows:

- 1. a. In primitive verbs and derivatives from them the root-syllable is usually accented. b. But the accent never goes further back than the fourth place, and seldom back of the third. It may rest on the third syllable only if the penult be short; on the fourth, only if both antepenult and penult be short; thus, káranam, káranāt, but karanéna; bódhati, kṣipasi, nácyatha, but bodhávaḥ, kṣipāmaḥ, nacyánti; dùhitā, dùhitaram, but duhitrṇām.
 - 2. Derivatives from nouns generally retain the accent of the - primitive, with the limitations given in 1. b.; thus, $r \dot{\alpha} \bar{n} k u$, $r \dot{\alpha} \bar{n} k a v a$; $g \dot{\alpha} r g a$, $g \dot{\alpha} r g y a h$, but $g \bar{\alpha} r g y \dot{\alpha} y a v \bar{n}$. A naturally short vowel in the penult, if followed by a group of consonants containing y or v, does not generally become long by position; thus, $p r \dot{\alpha} b a a a b y a a constant values, <math>v \dot{\alpha} b a a a b constant values$.

- 3. In verbs and verbal derivatives joined with prepositions, in augmented and reduplicated forms, and sometimes in declensional forms, the accent is recessive, if the root or stem-syllable be short; thus, ågamat, ånatam, anúṣṭhitam, but utkṛṣṭam, nirúktam; ágamat, ákṣipat, but bibhárti, tuṣṭáva, jagáu. Polysyllabic prepositions, when prefixed to other words, retain their own accent as secondary accent; thus, úpagácchati, úpagámatām.
- 4. In compounds, unless the first member be a monosyllabic word, each part generally retains its own accent, but that of the principal member is the strongest; thus, rājapūruṣam, pārvataṣi-kharākāram; but únmukham, diggajam, praṣiṣyam.

The division of syllables is much more apparent in Sanskrit than in English. In reading Sanskrit prose the Hindus generally drop into a sort of sing-song recitativo. Verses are always chanted.
